ALDERMEN REMEMBER THESE SCENES AND WHAT THEY COST

Expect New Snow Laws From Common Council

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

In keeping in season with the diving thermometer, Kingston's aldermen have turned the cold shoulder to Mayor Francis R. Koenig's suggestion for a parking ban on city streets during the winter but are nonetheless expected to pass new "snow legislation" sometime this month.

The reports from city hall now say that the Common Council is considering alternate side of the street parking for the winter months, and/or a winter-long ban on parking along the city's "snow routes" or main arteries such as Broadway, East Chester Street, Washington Avenue and Albany Avenue.

It appears certain that the aldermen will approve some sort of new restrictive snow legislation. The only question appears to be when they will act.

The Council will meet in regular session on Monday at city hall at 7:30 p.m. facing an abbreviated schedule. The snow vote may come then. It is possible that the meeting will be recessed for a vote on the snow later in the month.

In other action, the aldermen are expected to approve a local law which will allow residents within a 10-mile boundary of the city to serve on its police force.

They are also expected to approve a code of ethics, recommended by the state. Such laws have been approved in numerous towns and villages throughout the county.

Ratification of a contract signed by Mayor Koenig on Oct. 1 between Kingston Sanitation Service and the city for the collection of garbage along the central route is expected.

Kingston Sanitation, owned by Leo Darwak, took over the route of the late Byron Gerlack who died earlier this year. Mr. Gerlack had been paid $16,100 per year for the services. Darwak will be paid $20,000 a year, because, the mayor told the aldermen, Darwak had to purchase new equipment and hire more men. He also services the Uptown route. Philip Gerlack services the Downtown route.

The Council also will receive notice of a possible $200,000 law suit by Mid-Hudson Publications because of damages caused by sewage and surface water when The Daily Freeman building's basement was flooded on July 30. Attorneys Rusk, Rusk and Feeney charge the city, the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, the Board of Public Works and the Kingston Water Department in the complaint.

The Rev. Oscar Palmer of 15 Jansen Avenue has a similar complaint in to the Council, claiming water damage of $1,000 to his home. Both cases will be referred to Corporation Counsel Aaron E. Klein for study.

The aldermen are also expected to approve a trip request from City Building Inspector George E. Radcliffe for a building official's conference in Nanuet from Nov. 23 to Dec. 14.

The aldermen will convene the results of Tuesday's elections, to lead off Monday's meeting, followed by the regular order of business.

The Council meets on the second floor of city hall, 408 Broadway.

Russians Shrug Off U. S. Cold Shoulder

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Because of mounting irritation over the Soviet detention of three U.S. military officers, the United States has snubbed major Soviet revolutionary celebrations here, in Moscow and other capitals.

Additionally, just as the Soviet Embassy's celebration of the 53rd anniversary of the Russian Revolution got under way Friday night, the State Department expelled from Washington, Tass correspondent Leonid Zhegalov in direct retaliation for the ouster from Moscow Oct. 22 of Newsweek correspondent John Dornberg.

However, the U.S. gesture of vexation suffered at least one mixed signal when one high official showed up after failing to get the word.

And there was no immediate evidence that it jolted Soviet authorities into speeding up the expected release of two army generals and a major whose Beacraft U8 airplane strayed over Soviet territory Oct. 21.

The State Department ordered senior U.S. officials to boycott Soviet Embassy receptions around the world, allowing discretion to send a low-ranking representative if that was deemed in American interests.

In Washington, the State Department announced that it would send Richard T. Davis, deputy assistant secretary of state for European affairs, but then, without explanation, and possibly on White House instructions, the State Department announced it was downgrading its representative further to Adolph Dubs, the Soviet desk director at the State Department.

But not all American officials got the word. William H. Sullivan, the deputy assistant secretary of state for East Asian affairs and a top Vietnam expert, showed up at State Department officials are inclined to believe that by now Soviet authorities must have satisfied themselves about the innocence of the intrusion, but they fear that they may still try to pull some more anti-American propaganda from the incident by forcing them to appear at a press conference before releasing them.

In another development, former Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's heart is ailing again and the doctors say he needs hospital care, but he won't go just yet — not on this great Soviet holiday.

Family friends disclosed Friday that Khrushchev, 76, has suffered a relapse of the cardiac ailment that kept him in a hospital for nearly three months last summer.

They said Khrushchev's physicians urged him to enter a special hospital reserved for top Kremlin officials, but they ran afoul of the iron wall that helped keep him in charge of the Kremlin from Josef Stalin's death in 1953 until his own ouster in 1964.

Domestic Programs, Political Strategy

Nixon in Post-Election Session

KEY BISCAVNE, Fla. (UPI)

President Nixon summoned his closest advisors to the winter White House today for a post-election session on domestic programs, and probably political strategy.

Seeking relaxation after a rigorous campaign schedule, Nixon arrived here Friday night for a 10-day working vacation at his bayside villa.

He was expected to fly to Grand Cay, a tiny green isle in the Bahamas later today as a weekend guest of multimillionaire pal Robert H. Abplanalp of Bronxville, N.Y.

Flying in from Washington for an 11 a.m. EST gathering were Attorney General John N.

Mitchell, Nixon's campaign manager in the 1968 presidential election, presidential assistants John D. Ehrlichman, H. R. Haldeman and Donald Rumsfeld, Counselors Robert A. Finch and Bryce Harlow and special counsel Charles Colson.

Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler billed the meeting, as a "long-range planning session," with no set agenda. "We'll be looking ahead for the next two years" and mapping homefront programs to be submitted to the next Congress, he added.

Ziegler said Nixon's lieutenants on Capitol Hill will push for passage of the revolutionary welfare program proposal during the lame duck session.

The House-passed measure, which guarantees a minimum income to poor families, is presently stalemated in the Senate Finance Committee and is the bulwark of his domestic program.

Although the today's gathering of Nixon tacticians appeared to have political overtones, Ziegler insisted that its purpose was not an election post mortem.

Nevertheless, although the White House called the election a "tremendous success" there were indications that Nixon is less than satisfied with the overall GOP showing, particularly in the state houses, and has decided to revise campaign tactics for the 1972 presidential tilt.

Nixon will be joined here early next week by his wife Pat, who will spend the weekend in Washington to catch up on White House chores.

In preparation for the reopening of Congress on Nov. 16, Nixon also summoned a parade of other Cabinet level advisors later this week for meetings on foreign policy and the federal budget for fiscal 1972.

Hippy Sits in Judgment

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — The election of a hippie, who sneaked into an unimportant Justice of the peace position when voters weren't paying attention, is shrugged off by local folks.

"I haven't really gotten too upset about it because the office is so meaningless," County Atty. Daniel A. Young said Friday. "It has no salary, no office and no courtroom."

Phillip C. Hill, 22, a former University of Kansas student, who says he is a "marketer" of drugs, was elected without opposition. He drew 6,391 votes of more than 20,000 cast.

Hill filed as a Democrat, and had no opponent either in the primary or the general election. This is common for the Justice of the peace post in Kansas since the 1965 legislature stripped the office of virtually all authority.

Hill made no campaign appearances and tried to keep his hippie identity from becoming known, he said, to avoid possible write-in opposition.

Another Lawrence hippie candidate, who ran for sheriff on the Democratic ticket and sought the limelight, was snowed under by his Republican opponent almost 18,000 votes to 2,089.

Justices of the peace in Kansas are limited to performing marriage ceremonies and hearing civil cases for recovery of money in the amount of $1 or less. They have no jurisdiction in criminal cases.

Hill said one of his aims is to hear complaints and handle damage suits in which the "poor people of Lawrence" can claim damages against Lawrence for, but I think the reaction will be, "What are we doing with the others?" Buford Watson, city manager, said, "The general Hill, who has lived in Lawrence for 12 years, doesn't feel here is the office doesn't have any authority, so what difference does it make that he's elected?"

"There may be a little embarrassment because people didn't realize who they were voting for, but I think the reaction will be, "What are we doing with the others?" Buford Watson, city manager, said, "The general Hill, who has lived in Lawrence for 12 years, doesn't feel here is the office doesn't

Lull in Negotiations At Ulster College

By BRUCE KAUFMAN

STONE RIDGE

A lull has set in over the contract dispute between the Ulster County Legislature and the Faculty Association at Ulster County Community College as the talks continue to drag on unproductively and the faculty has assumed a stance of quiet concern.

Negotiations between representatives of the faculty association and the legislature resumed Friday night, but no progress in the dispute was announced.

A member of the faculty's negotiating team, Louis Cessaratto, told The Freeman today that the faculty was still pressing for more frequent negotiating sessions characterizing the current situation as a "crisis condition for all segments of the college community."

However, Cessaratto, who also is an instructor of psychology at UCC, would not indicate how the faculty plans to apply pressure on the legislature and UCC Board of Trustees beyond the negotiating table.

Earlier this week faculty members picketed the Ulster County Office Building to publicize their demands for stepped up negotiations and participated in an information teach-in at the UCC campus attended by a large and sympathetic student audience.

Cessaratto would not say whether the picketing or other campus activities would continue this week.

HIPPIE VICTORY SIGN—Phillip C. Hill gives a V-sign for victory after winning the position of justice of the peace in Lawrence, Kansas on the Democratic ticket. Hill, 23, said, "Mainly I earn my living by peddling dope, and I suppose I'll keep on since you can't earn much as a J.P. around here." Hill said secrecy was the secret of his success as he didn't tell the public he was a hippie. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Memoriam

In loving memory of John Stahl, who passed away 5 years ago, Nov. 8, 1965. God took him home, it was His will. But in our hearts we love him still.

His memory is as dear today As in the hour he passed away. We often sit and think of him When we are all alone. For memory is the only friend That grief can call its own.

WIFE & CHILDREN

Memoriam

In loving memory of Thomas Gallo, who passed away two years ago, Nov. 8, 1968. He had a nature you could not help loving. And a heart that was purer than gold. And to those who knew him and loved him. His memory will never grow cold.

Memoriam

In loving memory of Abram G. Heinlein, who passed away one year ago today, Nov. 7. He wished no one a last farewell.

Nor even said goodbye. He was gone before we knew it And only God knows why. His busy hands are resting now. His work on earth is done. His worries are all over. His heavenly crown is won. It only takes a little space To write how much we miss him But it will take the rest of our lives To forget the day we lost him.

Guilty Plea
In City Court

KINGSTON
Arrested in connection with police investigation of a reported gang fight on Broadway at the underpass, William Small, 20, of 24 West O'Reilly Street, pleaded guilty Friday before City Judge Hubert A. Richter and sentencing was adjourned until Friday, Nov. 13. Small was charged with third degree assault, resisting arrest and harassment.

TRICK-OR-TREAT DEATH—Kevin Toston, 5, died Friday because he ate some heroin-laced candy he collected while trick-or-treating on Halloween. Kevin's mother, Mrs. Ida Foster, appealed to Detroiters to help find the sick person who gave her son the heroin-laced candy. Kevin had been in a coma since Tuesday after eating the candy. An autopsy was ordered to determine the exact cause of death. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Police Arrest Girl,
Felony Drug Charge

KINGSTON
A 17-year-old girl who police had sought on Oct. 29 in connection with the massive narcotics raid in Kingston and county communities, was taken into custody early Friday afternoon by detectives on charges involving LSD.

Detective Lieut. Charles McCullough and Detective John Crespo with a warrant issued by Special City Judge George A. Beck, arrested Laura Rhea Cloud of R.F.D. 2, Box 189, Kingston. She was specifically charged with criminally selling hallucinogenic drugs in the fourth degree, a felony.

The arrest was made at the defendant's home. Police had expected to make the arrest in connection with the raids that

Dutchess Mishaps
Kill Two Persons

Two persons died on Dutchess County highways Friday, including a 61-year-old Hopewell Junction man who suffered a heart seizure while entering a service area parking lot on the Taconic Parkway and a 35-year-old Troy man who sustained fatal injuries when his car crashed head-on into a tractor-trailer truck on Interstate Route 84, according to police authorities.

Fishkill troopers reported that Anthony Spezzo, 69, of Hopewell Junction turned into the parking lot of the Shenandoah Service Center on the Taconic State Parkway at about 7 p.m. Friday and then suffered a heart seizure. His auto, said police, then went out of control and struck a parked car near an air pump in the parking lot. Spezzo was pronounced dead on arrival at Highland Hospital in Beacon with cause of death listed by heart attack.

City Police Investigating
Fire in Unoccupied Building

KINGSTON
Kingston city police have been called in to investigate a fire of incendiary origin that caused minor damage to a three-story, unoccupied brick and frame building on 163 Hunter Street Friday night. The building was located next door to a home that erupted in flames Oct. 30 sending four persons to a local hospital.

Firefighters were also called out to extinguish an incendiary brush fire Friday afternoon and a stove fire early today. Upon arrival of firefighting equipment at 163 Hunter Street Friday night, fire officials found the cellar of the vacant building involved in flames. The blaze was extinguished by two pump streams from Engine No. 3 from the Cornell Station. Fire damage, said officials, was restricted to the cellar and flooring of the first floor of the Officials in the Conservation Department branch at New Paltz are predicting a good season for hunters this fall. The optimistic estimates are based largely on the fact that deer in the area came through the winter in good condition.

BIG PLUS

Other pertinent factors that back up the optimism are that many fawns have been seen and Department figures show that more deer have been killed by automobiles than in previous years, which indicates that a substantial deer herd is on the move.

DEER HUNTING prospects in upper New York State this fall are somewhat contradictory however, according to Ted Janes in his annual forecast for Outdoor Life Magazine.

Conservation Department managers, he says, claim that hunting in the state's big upland areas will be excellent—never better. This is right on the heels of two record years, back to back.

At the same time the department has made a whopping cut of 39,300 in party permits for hunting antlerless deer. Last season it issued 100,150 permits; this year, 60,850.

This is the most drastic action taken since the state first permitted doe hunting 30 years ago. But even here is a contradiction, says Janes. The party permit cuts apply entirely to the Adirondacks and the Catskills areas. In the central and western regions of the state, the number of permits has been increased. This includes big Steuben and Allegany counties, which traditionally lead the state in deer kill totals. Last season 9,000 permits were allocated to these two counties. This year 11,200 are available.

FEDERATED SPORTSMEN'S CLUB members heard an interesting report on pesticides from Glenn Cole, a biologist for the Department of Environmental Conservation. Cole told the representatives of the 21 member clubs at their October meeting that a number of local woodcock had been sent to the state lab in Rome, N.Y. for determination of any DDT in the birds.

While the local woodcocks tested show no appreciable concentration of DDT, Cole noted that flight birds coming in from Canada and other northern areas will have a higher concentration of DDT. Cole advised the sportsmen that woodcock should not be eaten until a more comprehensive study could be made on the DDT problem. He also mentioned that ducks and geese were also being checked for DDT content but no results were yet available.

Commenting on the Fish and Wildlife Management Act Cooperator Areas in our region, Cole said all indications point toward another good year for the hunters using the cooperative areas.

IN HIS REPORT on the recent Conservation Council Convention at Monticello, delegate Carlton King noted that today politicians and state and federal government are beginning to recognize the aims that hunters and fishermen have been trying for years to achieve.

One of the highlights of the convention was the rejection of a proposed revision of the Sullivan Law, even though the firearms committee recommended that changes appeared to be in order. King also urged that the federation give support to the sportsmen of Long Island, who are working to prevent expansion of Kennedy Airport into Jamaica Bay, an area badly needed by Long Island residents for recreational purposes.

King recalled that James Buckley, since elected U.S. Senator from New York, received a standing ovation when he attended the session. He was solidly on the side of sportsmen in their stand against firearms registration. The council president, Marty Turner, stressed the importance of all federations and clubs being on the alert for newer and younger men in their ranks to carry the Conservation ball in the future.

THE FEDERATION took a strong stand against the ban on hunting on the recently-purchased state lands in the Lake Minnewaska area. President Meyer requested that the federation secretary send letters to the governor and the Commissioner of Environmental Conservation asking for information as to what type of recreational activities will be permitted on the Minnewaska tract.

Meyer protested that, if the land was to be closed to hunting, a great loss of outdoor recreation would result. This in turn, he warned, would mean that additional hunting pressure would be heaped on other areas that are already over-worked.

In a further report on trout stocking in the county, fish chairman Frank Kraus reported that a total of 6,410 brown and brook trout fingerlings of five inches would be stocked in county streams between Oct. 13 and Oct. 15. Kraus also reported that on Sept. 13 and Sept. 29 brown trout ranging from 18 inches to 24 inches were released in the Rondout reservoir. These fish were brood fish from a local state hatchery. A total of 1,125 brood fish were released for a total weight of 2,387 pounds.

FIRST REPORTS FROM the Small Game Season in the Southeastern Zone of the state which opened on Oct. 19 indicate that hunting success was good in both Dutchess County and Putnam County cooperative areas. The weather was excellent and the number of hunters out for the first week approached 1,720.

The following species were taken during the first week: DUTCHESS—ring-necked pheasants, 22; Japanese green pheasants (0); woodcock, 86; squirrel 44; grouse, 25; cottontail, 18; raccoon 6; wood duck 2, mallard and green-winged teal, one each.

PUTNAM—ring-necked pheasants, 14; Japanese green pheasants 6, woodcock 98, squirrel 115, grouse 44, cottontail 66; raccoon 4, one each of wood duck, black duck, Canada goose and quail.

Warren McKeen, Region 8 supervisor, said the season is too early for valid comparison with other years, but noted the several Japanese green pheasants taken in the Putnam area. The woodcock seemed to be up which, he said, indicates that some flight birds are coming through.

Dallas and Vikings Sunday Picks

By MIKE RATHER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League's week-end program includes nine games which will have a bearing on first place—and that makes it a critical schedule.

First place, however, is something this pro picker would have trouble locating. Last week's picks turned up a 7-5-1 record for 15-9-2 over-all—and the jitters with so many critical games scheduled.

The key ones are Minnesota at Washington, Dallas at New York Giants, Cleveland at Oakland, Denver at San Diego, San Francisco at Chicago, Atlanta at Los Angeles, Detroit at New Orleans, Boston at St. Louis and Houston at Kansas City.

Here, theoretically, is how it will all turn out (Sunday games unless otherwise noted):

Minnesota 31, Washington 21—Vikings lead NFC Central and have allowed only 56 points in seven games. Redskins' defense improving, but Vikings playing as if they're invincible with Gary Cuozzo taking firm hold at quarterback.

Dallas 27, New York Giants 24—Giants, one back of Cowboys and Cardinals, suffer letdown after emotional victory over crosstown rival Jets. And the Cowboys won't pick any fights. What'll Fran Tarkenton, the Giants' quarterback, think of now?

Oakland 28, Cleveland 21—Speaking of fights, the Raiders will get one from the Browns, but rookie tight end Ray Chester gives Darryle Lamonia too many weapons. Besides, Browns may be without Leroy Kelly. Raiders lead AFC West, Browns AFC Central.

San Francisco 38, Chicago 10—NFC Western leading 49ers take to the road and maul Bears behind quarterback John Brodie, having a great season. Chicago hanging in there without Gale Sayers but Cecil Turner can't return a kickoff for a TD every game.

San Diego 21, Denver 20—The Chargers, with Dick Post back in the line-up, now have the running strength to upend the Broncos, who have been slipping and trail Oakland by .029 percentage points in AFC West.

Los Angeles 35, Atlanta 24—Rams have to keep winning to keep up with 49ers in NFC West, but may find the Falcons tougher than expected. Falcon quarterback Bob Berry will have to be careful against a front four that leads the NFC in dumping the passer.

Detroit 31, New Orleans 14—The Lions, now trailing Vikings by full game in NFC Central, could have letdown after tough

Racquet Club Opens Its Doors

THE Northern Dutchess Racquet Club has opened its doors for the winter season for the third year.

For those tennis buffs who cannot sandwich enough volleyball into the warm months, the indoor court at the Dutchess County Fairgrounds are available.

In order to reserve time, the player needs only to call Mrs. Neuberger at 2 Trinity Place, Rhinebeck, and pick up the key to the permanent building at her house. An hourly rate of $4 is now in effect.

There are several hours of each weekday that are presently available, as well as two membership subscriptions. Those interested may contact Jane Smithers evenings at 758-9811 in Red Hook.

The court is the only one in the Mid-Hudson Valley available over the winter months, and has been well used in recent years.

Keystone Memento Racing Winner

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Three two-year-old fillies rubbed shoulders down the stretch Friday night in the $29,220 Belle Acton pace at Roosevelt Raceway but Keystone Memento was declared winner. Truthful Waverly ended up a nose back with Princess Sam one nose behind her. The winner returned $3.20 for the 2:04 3-5 mile.

In harness action at Saratoga, Speedy Strides took the $3,000 mile trot feature in 2:05 2-5. Be Special finished one length back, followed by Express Traffic. The winner paid $4.60.

Lynn Lee led all the way and fought off Nova Star's surge to take the $4,500 feature trot at Batavia Downs by a nose. Bonus Boy was third. Lynn Lee was clocked at 2:07 3-5 and returned $11.20.

Toughest Victory Brings the Hawks Nearer a Tourney

By MORT LAFFIN

NEW PALTZ Elbaum was knocked out. "I think that we are definitely back in the tournament picture," said New Paltz State soccer coach Bob Durkin after Thursday's 2-1 win over a tough Bridgeport squad. "Our record is now 10-3-1 and all three of our losses have been 1-0 affairs. I think we may get a bid from the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics. District Seven, the small-school division. We are one of 10 teams that are being considered for the four-team event," he said.

The Bridgeport game, played at the Connecticut school's Seaside Park, may go down in soccer history as one of the toughest intercollegiate contests ever played, at least as far as these two schools are concerned.

The City's ambulance squad was kept rather busy during the tilt as five players, three from New Paltz and two from the host squad, were taken to the hospital. Two of the New Paltz injuries and two of the Bridgeport injuries were quite serious.

Halfback Jerry Hoetmer suffered a concussion and possible skull fracture when he collided with our right fullback Tom Giordano," said Durkin. Hoetmer was hospitalized overnight as he was X-rayed for the possible skull fracture. Giordano was also taken in and released. Elliott Pobbi-Asare, high-scoring inside right halfback, suffered a fractured hip or bone chip off his hip and his status is quite questionable right now. Bridgeport's Rich Braver suffered broken ribs and Lanny ball hit dead-center of the cross bar and bounced down. King picked it off before it hit and headed it into the net as he passed in front to cover the shot. Asare got the assist.

In the third period, King scored on a tremendous shot from about 40 yards out. He belted a high, looping drive that went by Jerry Soulious and Asare, over the outstretched hands of Bridgeport goalie Craig Pepin.

New Paltz had 22 shots on goal to 13 for the losers. The winners had five corner kicks to three and eight goalie saves to 10 for the home side.

The Hawk boosters face Westville St. Massachusetts, on the road Tuesday and the performance they come through with there will probably decide whether or not their post season aspirations will be realized.

One area was mused whether the game would be played at the Westville field or in the front yard of the local hospital. Good question.

The lineups:
New Paltz (2): Goal—J. Lipman; DEF—T. Giordano, LEB—G. Cassarini, RHB—T. G. Tave, CHB—J. Soulious, LHB—J. Hoetmer, OR—B. Schaeffer, IR—E. Pobbi-Asare, F—L. Longobardi, CF—M. Lipowski, IL—W. Hippy, OL—W. Blair.
Scoring by periods:
New Paltz 0 1 0—2
Bridgeport 1 0 0—1
NP—1st, 13:30, Metcalfe, King (Pobbi-Asare); 3rd, 9:27, King.
B—1st, 1:09, Bruce DeGraff (Asst. Gary Robinson).
Reserves—B. Francis Manuel, Angelo D'Martino, Roger Horn.
NP: Rich Schimmel, Metcalfe, King, Winston Maurissette, Stan Truman, Curt Ronsen.

BOYS SOCCER CHAMPIONS: Members of the Meagher School boys soccer team who won the Kingston City Schools Championship by defeating the Brigham School team, 4-1, in the finals of the annual schoolboy tournament.

Both teams were undefeated going into the finals of the tournament. Meagher scored seven goals in each of its first three wins, defeating Edison, 7-3; Hurley, 8-2, and Finn, 7-1. They whipped Brigham 4-1.

Brigham School, meanwhile, won over George Washington, 4-1 and Port Ewen, 3-0.1. Other results were: Hurley 9, Lake Katrine 2; Finn 7, Zena 5; Tillson 7, School No. 8 (1); John F. Kennedy School 4, Chambers 3; Port Ewen 10, Tillson 2; Finn 6, John F. Kennedy 2.

The overall program was under the direction of Joseph Defino, elementary supervisor of physical education in the Kingston City Schools Consolidated.

New York Jets 24, Pittsburgh by injuries, having trouble scoring. Al Woodall coming on as Jets' quarterback. Pitt glamor guy Terry Bradshaw barking at the club now. That doesn't help. Buffalo 28, Cincinnati 21—O.J. Simpson coming off his besting five-game winning streak, ground gaining performance for Don Horn may be at quarter. Bills while Bengals, weakened back for Packers.

Tennis Classic Starts Jan. 2 At the Garden

NEW YORK don king, winning five sets from The $210,000 Tennis Cham-Rosewall in the longest All-pions Classic will get underway England final in 23 years. Rose-Saturday afternoon, Jan. 2, in wall got his revenge at Forest Madison Square Garden with Hills, smothering Newcombe in defending champion Rod Laver the semifinals in what many ex-facings Forest Hills champion peris considered the finest ten-Ken Roswall in the first of his the 35-year-old Newcombe twelve $10,000 winner-take-all had ever displayed.

"I was never really in the match," said an awed New-combe after his defeat. Tickets for the Rosewall-Laver match may be ordered by mail now to Madison Square Garden, 4 Pennsylvania Plaza, New York City, N. Y. 10001.

Of the nine entrants, two are new to Classic play. Ashe, the 1968 U.S. Open champion and bulwark of the Davis Cup team will make his contract professional debut in the Classic. The other newcomer is Taylor, a rugged, handsome Englishman with an impressive record of triumphs in tournament play in 1970, including a stunning conquest of Laver in the fourth round at Wimbledon.

In addition to Madison Square Garden, the coast-to-coast Classic schedule will include stops at Boston, Philadelphia, Detroit, Cleveland, Rochester and Los Angeles—with the finals to be played in March.

Unlike conventional tournament play, the Classic is a match play event. Each man stakes his skill on a single, five-set, sudden death match, 5-0-1. Brockport has a 5-0 record. The winner goes on to the next match and a new challenger.

From the twelve matches, four men will advance to the two semi-finals worth $40,000, and the two survivors gain the $50,000 final.

Should one man sweep the twelve $10,000 winner-take-all tests, then capture his semifinal and ultimately the championship, he would collect $175,000. The final match, offering $35,000 to the winner, exceeds the individual pay-off awards of the World Series, Super Bowl, the NBA and NFL finals.

Losers in the first eight matches have an opportunity to get back into the action through qualifying matches, in which some of the finest players in the world will battle for no money at all—just the opportunity of getting a spot in the playoffs.

The dramatic ingredient of the Classic remains for 1971. The tie break will be in effect in all matches. When a set reaches 5 all, the men play a 12-point game, with each player alternating on each service point. Seven points won means set victory.

The second largest crowd in the history of indoor tennis, 14,761, greeted the Classic inaugural in January, 1970 at Madison Square Garden. The match was a memorable one, with Gonzalez defeating Laver in a five-set, sudden death masterpiece.

The opening match of the 1971 Classic on Jan. 2 at the Garden, pairing Laver and Rosewell, brings back to the court the two finalists of the first Classic. Oddly, both Laver and Rosewell were losers in first round play, but both fought back into the race.

Roche is the only player to hold a winning edge over Laver in the past two years of play. He defeated Rod in the U.S. Pro championships this year, ending Rod's long reign as titlist in the Boston event.

Newcombe was the Wimbledon champion.

Election Finances

From all accounts, the off-term election was the most costly in history, but no one would guess it by the reports of candidates, both successful and unsuccessful, as required by law.

Senate races were especially costly, by all accounts running into millions, but the candidates who swore that they received nothing and spent nothing were wholly within the law. They did not perjure themselves. For the law requires candidates to file "a correct and itemized account of each expenditure (and contribution) made (and received) by him, with his knowledge or consent, in aid or support of his candidacy for election . . ."

The loophole is in the three words "knowledge or consent." As long as an aspirant for the Senate or House scrupulously turns his attention away from the sordid business of collecting or spending money, he tells the truth when he reports no contributions or expenditures to his knowledge or consent.

Some states have no reporting requirement. New York does. Accordingly, James Buckley, the Conservative, demonstrated it. He attached his state filing to the Senate form and supplied five cartons of detail on the $1,178,971 raised and $1,141,377.92 spent in his campaign.

In their reports to Washington, however, candidates can report as much or as little as they please and still be within the law. The supposed purpose of the law, to disclose who gets what from whom and for what, is thoroughly defeated. For one thing, big contributors prefer to remain anonymous. So long as candidates need the money, they string along. Much as we would like teeth in this law, we fear Congress will not supply them.

Curbing Police Toll

Assaults on police across the country are one of the worst manifestations of the lawlessness that is abroad in this land. President Nixon has issued an executive directive making available appropriate investigative resources of the Justice Department to state and local police in such cases.

Attorney General John N. Mitchell is also considering a recommendation that assaults on police be made a federal crime, so that the FBI can enter such cases immediately. Recently, policemen have been shot in their patrol cars, unarmed at their desks in police stations, as well as in pursuit of their duties, when shootouts with criminals resulted. Bombs and booby traps also have been set for police officers. Police have become "the enemy" to many militants.

Mitchell does not believe that the nationwide attacks and bombings are the result of a single group. "We do not know of any total, national, combined, synchronized conspiracy of terrorists groups," he said. "But there are some of these anarchistic groups of nihilist acting on a national basis."

Isn't that enough to round up these nihilistic groups for conspiracy to kill policemen? Or must we wait for more policemen to be killed before we proceed against them? The federal government can investigate the killings, and apprehend the killers, but persons bent on revolution must be stopped before the blood bath begins. They proclaim their purpose. The government should respond in kind.

Test of Soviet Aims

The two superpowers are resuming their strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) in Helsinki this week. The Vienna round ended on good terms August 14, but some difficulties have arisen since, which cloud the outcome of this third and critical round, primarily in the Middle East and in Cuba.

The United States proposal for a treaty was tabled last July 24. It stressed a numerical ceiling on each nation's land-and-sea-based ballistic missiles able to reach the territory of the other with a sub-ceiling on missiles over a specified cubic volume—which would be a limit on the huge Soviet SS-9 missile—plus a ban on rival anti-missile (ABM) systems or limitation of ABM to the protection of command and control centers—the two national capitals, Moscow and Washington.

Moscow has contended that any strategic arms agreement must cover all nuclear weapons of one nation that can reach the territory of the other, including American tactical aircraft based in Western Europe and the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean. The United States rejected this concept on the ground that these aircraft are a counter to the 100 Soviet medium and intermediate range missiles targeted on Western Europe.

Despite these and other differences, the two nations have more than sufficient reasons to continue negotiations toward agreement. Both have the power to destroy the other and each can counter-attack. The cost of more sophisticated nuclear arms is becoming prohibitive. Arms limitation with proper means of assuring agreed-upon restrictions are essential to both nations.

"Hey, Pop, We Ain't so Bad!"

Henry J. Taylor Says Gromyko, Phenomenal Survivor

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, conferring with President Nixon in the White House about Soviet intentions in the Middle East, Vietnam, etc., was the same man who sat in the same place and lied to President Kennedy about the Soviet missile placements in Cuba.

Gromyko himself is an absolute phenomenon in the U.S.S.R. If a cat has nine lives, Gromyko has had 50. Going all the way back to Stalin's long era, this phenomenal survivor — and only Gromyko — has survived every Kremlin upheaval, surmounted every power change, outlived every purge and emerged in place.

He knows the United States well, has for nearly three decades, and cashes in on every weakness we have. His Kremlin function is to help create our foreign problems. And when you negotiate with Gromyko he uses the judo master's trick of suddenly relaying posture and letting your own momentum trip you up.

I have known Gromyko for 26 years. He is often about as loquacious as a Scotsman's telegram. But, in spite of his stony face and dour look, Gromyko is much easier to be with than he looks to be on TV — until you talk business. And to the depths of this man's bones he honestly considers the United States a paper tiger and, moreover, that we are being fatally broken up and neutralized from within.

I flew the Atlantic one night with him. We were deadlocked in Geneva. During our conversation in the plane Gromyko chuckled, "I can stay there and talk as long as there are swans in Lake Geneva." It was Gromyko's usual method of stalling and stalling so that the United States, anxious to get some sort of agreement going, would make concessions.

Then Gromyko, obtaining concessions inspired by our desire for Soviet cooperation and for world peace, considers concessions as signs of U.S. weakness. He goes on from these and promptly lies some more.

But Gromyko is not the enemy. The enemy is the Soviet system — not any man. Soviet policy runs on alternating current. Our history with the Soviet reveals innumerable examples of what we have come to call cold war "psychological warfare" with its sudden shifts from "hard line" to "soft line" to gain immediate objectives and comfort us.

We should never trust this enemy, especially when he smiles and when he offers gifts. He is always dangerous — most dangerous when he seems most innocent and obliging. He never has a change of heart. The more he changes, the more he is the same.

One of the hidden strengths in this alternating current policy is that millions among us are too disbelieving, unknowing or distracted to recognize it. The war for the defense of Western civilization is entering its critical stage. Yet millions who should be its passionate defenders, unaware of the nature and extent of their danger, have left the gate open and gone to bed.

Thus, given proper direction from the Kremlin through Gromyko and others, the wily alternating between "hard line" and "soft line" — the iron fist and velvet glove diplomacy — is a relentless success. Good international relations are based on the principle of reciprocity. Where is the reciprocity in all this?

Privately, later TV appearances notwithstanding, President Nixon found it hard to keep his temper in his White House talk with Gromyko. Behind the scenes, he is fully aware of the difference between the Soviet's superficially conciliatory attitudes, as shown by the Brandt-Kosygin pact in West Germany, and the grim realities of the increasingly massive military power of the U.S.S.R.

The warning in this carries as little weight today with millions among us as did Winston Churchill's warnings about Nazi Germany in the 1930s. Twenty-five postwar years of alarms have apparently created public boredom. But all this is surely an inevitable preparation for a new round of Soviet power politics after the expected withdrawal of many American troops in Europe as well as from Vietnam.

By operating on alternating current — "hard line" then "soft line" — the Soviet program is inching forward everywhere in the world: the Middle East, Africa, Latin America, the Far East. President Nixon is agonizingly caught between Gromyko's lies, which he well knows are lies, and America's protection while "peace" demonstrators and other internal disrupters — vicious and otherwise — pull the rug out from under the United States.

Nixon's Main Objective Was to Build Party Unity

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — There has been a great deal of misunderstanding as to President Nixon's objectives in the 1970 election campaign.

Of course, the President did want to strengthen his party in the Senate and overcome so far as possible the heavy loss of House seats normal in an off-year election. But to stop there, I think, is to miss Nixon's main objective in this campaign — and that was to build a political party.

As a result of long years out of power during much of the past 35 years, many Republican senators and representatives had begun to go their own individual ways. National party endorsement often added nothing to their campaign.

One Republican congressman, for example, in 1960 fought vigorously with his party's committee in an attempt to keep presidential candidate Nixon's picture off the cover of his campaign brochure.

A congressional majority is very important. But equally important to a president is a unified party which will work as a team in an all-out effort to push through legislation he wants.

Even with the Democratic majority in Congress these past few years, a study of the votes indicates that if Nixon had had tighter unity among Republicans (with the Democrats so frequently split themselves), more of his proposals would have fared better in Congress. This would, of course, be true during the next two years as well.

This lack of party unity has been a deep source of worry and a repeated subject of strategy meetings at the White House.

Nixon has felt this problem keenly. In addition, he had seen his personal actions in the 1960s bear fruit along this line. In the several years after he was defeated for the presidency in 1960, Nixon traveled the country working to help other Republicans get elected. It was clear that this work had built loyalty and helped considerably in winning him the presidential nomination. He had seen that loyalty translated into some trend toward unity.

Anyone who has been close to congressional offices knows how much congressmen are influenced by a president willing to do something for them — and how much less they are influenced by presidents unwilling to provide White House boosts for them or through them for their constituents.

Few men are so secure in their seats they don't eagerly grasp for all the positive help they can get. This applies even to men who win by considerable margins.

It is obvious to anyone who watched Nixon in the 1970 campaign that Republican senators and representatives who have worked closely with the party and with the President can count on his aid in the future, both at election time and in matters affecting their districts. As noted above, these little day-to-day things make a difference. By his 1970 campaign actions, the President was signaling this message loud and clear.

But this is not all. Most politicians love a fighter. This was one of President Truman's appeals. The never-give-up fighting image which Nixon studiously is working to build the sort of thing that draws to a leader (or president) a following which can be a base for strong party unity.

Jack Anderson Says Subsidized Ships Undercut U.S., Not Foreign, Vessels

WASHINGTON — Hundreds of U.S. cargo ships, including the romantic tramp steamers, are in danger of being driven from the high seas by the American taxpayers.

The taxpayers have been shelling out $200 million a year to help 13 U.S. lines compete against foreign ships. But the lucky 13 have used the money instead to compete against unsubsidized American shippers.

Now the owners of more than 300 unsubsidized ships have brought their complaints before the Federal Maritime Administration.

This column has seen subpoenaed material not yet put into evidence, which shows the 13 subsidized lines are collecting $2,000 to $2,500 a day for each ship.

This generous sum is supposed to pay the extra labor costs of the U.S. ships, so they can compete with foreign freighters using cheap labor. But the subsidized ships compete more with unsubsidized American freighters than with foreign freighters.

The lucky 13 haul up to 95 per cent government cargo which, under U.S. law, can't be shipped in foreign steamers. The competition for government shipping contracts, therefore, is all American — between the subsidized and unsubsidized ships.

Unfair Competition

Shippers whose operating costs are partially paid by the taxpayers, obviously, can afford to underbid their less-blessed competitors.

The subpoenaed data indicates that heavy subsidies have been paid to such big firms as American Mail Lines, Lyke Brothers, American President Lines, Pacific Far East Line, American Export Isbrandtsen Lines and States Steamship Company.

The taxpayers' largesse was intended to help them meet foreign competition. Yet American President and Lykes Brothers carried more than 90 per cent government cargo. American Mail and American President hauled more than 80 per cent government cargo. Pacific Far East, American Export Isbrandtsen and States Steamship all carried more than 70 per cent.

In testimony submitted in advance but scheduled for later this month, the president of the unsubsidized States Marine International, Robert Stone, complains.

"For a subsidizing line, operating costs are reduced by some $2,400 or more a day for each ship. This means that a subsidized line can carry cargo in the reserved U.S. flag market at rates so low that they do not cover actual operating costs," Stone said there was no way his company could compete.

Fighting to keep the subsidy or at least delay a decision, the 13 favored shippers claim they must call at more ports and build more ships than do unsubsidized lines. Without government handouts, they claim, their companies will flounder.

Footnote: President Nixon has now signed a bill authorizing construction of 300 new ships and some subsidies to tramps and tankers.

Illegal Orders

The chief of the venerable Smithsonian Institution has cracked down sharply, and perhaps illegally, on contracts between his staff and Congress.

The stern orders were issued quietly last June by Smithsonian Secretary S. Dillon Ripley as a congressional subcommittee prepared to hold hearings on charges that the institution's finances had been mismanaged.

In a memo to key staff members, Ripley directed that all but the most routine phone conversations with people on Capitol Hill must be reported to him.

Further, Ripley said:

"Letters or reports to Members of the Congress are to be signed by the Secretary or, in his absence, the Undersecretary."

Although the memo was passed off as an attempt to "confirm established practice" and to clarify the Smithsonian's procedures, the timing suggested to staff members it was a bold attempt to silence anyone who might have wanted to divulge damaging information to congressional investigators.

As such, it appears to violate federal law which provides that the right of federal employees to "petition Congress . . . or to furnish information to either House of Congress, or to any committee thereof, shall not be denied or interfered with."

While the Ripley memo doesn't specifically order the staff to end its contacts with Capitol Hill, it went far beyond the organization's published policy and thus could be taken as "interference" with the employees' rights.

Ripley could not be reached for comment, but Undersecretary James Bradley insisted to this column that the memo was neither intended nor taken as literally as it sounded.

Small Safety Cars

The U.S., which is building experimental safety cars of the family sedan size, has brought quiet pressure upon foreign auto producers to develop some small experimental safety models.

Transportation officials in Germany and Japan have indicated tentatively that they will cooperate with the U.S. safety program. Both countries are expected to sign a formal agreement later this month to foot the bill for the small safety cars while the U.S. supplies technical data.

Government representatives in England, France, Italy and Sweden have also expressed interest in the venture but have made no commitments.

Nixon Outsmarts Himself GOP Suffers Heavy Losses

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

NEA Washington Correspondent

HONOLULU (NEA) — President Nixon, styled the master politician, has a way of outfoxing himself, and the Republicans' heavy gubernatorial losses in the 1970 elections are evidence he may have done it at this critical time for his party's future.

The Democrats' net pickup of governorships in the range of 10 or so, coupled with necessarily incomplete figures indicating total Democratic control of at least 27 of the 50 state legislatures, can reinforce the party handicap of the GOP for another decade or more.

For, on the basis of the 1970 census totals, district lines for both congressional and state legislative seats will be redrawn in 1971 and thereafter. No one doubts that where Democrats have control at the state level, those lines will be drawn to their advantage.

If the importance of this escapes anyone, let it be remembered that only twice since 1930 has the GOP commanded the U. S. House for two-year periods. In the last 20 elections from that date on, the GOP only five times has elected 200 or more congressmen — with 218 needed for a majority. Even without the coming new reapportionment, the Democrats already have such a strong leg up in many areas that in any given election year they need only a fair portion of the so-called swing districts to gain a House majority.

Moreover, in these 1970 tests, the Democrats have come close to turning around the GOP's lopsided 32-18 edge in governorships, which included nine of the 10 most populous states (Missouri previously was the most populous northern state with a Democratic governor).

Now, in addition to keeping their prior hold on Texas, the Democrats have cut into the 10 biggest with victories in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Florida and may add another.

Automatically, this widens the Democrats' power base for a strong presidential thrust against Nixon in 1972, especially since the Democrats' big state triumphs are backed up by gubernatorial victories in such second-tier states as Minnesota, Wisconsin, Nebraska and Oklahoma. Their only loss to the GOP in this category was Connecticut.

A party holding approximately three-fifths of the governorships, as the Democrats will in 1972 as result of this election, can operate with far more unity and sense of command in a swing behind a key presidential prospect like Maine's Democratic Sen. Edmund Muskie, than can a loose confederation of headless state organizations such as comprised the Democratic party after 1968.

Of all this peril to himself in 1972 and to the GOP's long-range building hopes, Nixon had fair warning in at least one private memorandum earlier this year. The key point of this advisory was that the President was concentrating on the wrong ball game.

In personally campaigning in an unprecedented 22 states, Nixon focused almost wholly on U.S. Senate races, even through GOP experts told me last spring and again in August that their pickup chances were at best only four or five of the seven gains needed for control. Nixon had to know what he was doing.

Yet, doggedly, I pitched his whole effort toward the Senate. A dozen Republicans yielded apparently safe House seats to run for the Senate, many at the President's behest. Five won, and the official canvass in Indiana might give victory to a sixth. Evidently Nixon assumed some GOP House losses anyway (he was right), but figured that body's more conservative tone would make them less hurtful.

The great irony is that the President's entire game plan from the time of his election was to build the GOP toward a national majority. But what he has done is cop a small public relations triumph (holding House losses low and gaining two or maybe three Senate seats) at the cost of party-damaging losses in the crucial governorship arena.

Concert Marks First Year

Forty youthful voices have been tuning up to concert pitch in preparation for public debut next weekend.

Sing-Out Kingston will present its first large scale concert Nov. 13 and 14 at Kingston High School auditorium. Curtain time will be 8 p. m. both nights.

Tickets are on sale now from any Sing Out Kingston member or at the door on Friday and Saturday.

Sing-Out Kingston was inspired into being a little over a year ago after local performances by the international

Up with People group. The Kingston group includes young people from the city, Port Ewen and Hurley.

Although Sing-Out Kingston is under the guidance of an adult steering committee, all the work has been done by the teens themselves. The young people, mostly high school students, have taken it upon themselves to write arrangements of the Up with People favorites and to develop choreography complimentary to the selections.

Also, among the group's activities are the construction of a state and numerous fund raising events designed to cover the cost of a recently purchased sound system.

In preparation for their major concert Sing-Out members have presented programs at a number of local organization functions. Last month they appeared at the Night of Folk at Holy Cross Episcopal Church and at the Villa Nueva, Plattekill. They also presented the entertainment at the Hurley Reformed Church annual fellowship dinner.

Sing-Out Kingston's stated purpose is threefold. First aim is to develop leadership potential; second to inspire respect for all people and third to follow a creative direction into the future.

Just how well these aims have been fulfilled in the scant year of operation is already evident in the obvious planning and execution of major organizational tasks. Further proof will be evidenced at the debut performances next weekend.

Those who enjoyed the Up with People concerts will certainly be inspired by the local version carried out by Ulster County's own teens.

READY TO SING OUT—Members of Sing-Out Kingston go into final rehearsals for their first public concert to be presented at Kingston High School Auditorium Nov. 13 and 14. Discussing program notes are (L-R) Joanne Seelbach, Doug

Staky, Linda Breithaupt and Barry Lown. Tickets are available from any of the 40 Sing Out members or at the door the nights of the concert. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Youth in the News on Stage

Drama, Music, promotions and appointments highlight this week's Youth in the News with a number of Ulster County students taking the campus stage front.

Karen Sparks of Woodstock will appear in this weekend's production of When We Were Very Young, a program of children's classics geared for adults. The Pierians of the State University College at Fredonia are staging four performances through Monday at the upstate college. Karen will do interpretations from Charlotte's Web. Other children's classics include Winnie-the-Pooh and Through the Looking Glass.

James F. Viceich, of Saugerties, will make a four-day tour with the 70-voice Bucknell University Chapel Choir for a series of concerts in central New York in mid-November.

Under the direction of Professor William D. McRae, the choir is trained in a capella works of a varied nature. The choristers sing for 30 services a year in Rooke Chapel, make concert appearances, tours, and broadcasts.

A bass, Viceich is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Viceich, of 54 West Bridge Street, Saugerties. He is a Bucknell freshman.

In other campus reports, Ulster County students have been named to key posts on their respective campuses.

Shari R. Kalish, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Kalish, 15 Juniper Lane, Woodstock, has been elected president of her campus residence house at Russell Sage College, Troy, where she is a senior majoring in elementary education.

Miss Kalish has been on the dean's list each year she has been at Russell Sage.

Jackie Olivet of Kingston, a freshman at Colby College, Waterville, Maine, has been appointed to serve on the college's architectural committee.

The committee advises the president on matters of campus planning and building design.

A graduate of Kingston High School, she is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John A. Olivet of 75 St. James Street. At Colby she is a government major and is a member of student government.

Stanley B. Longyear, '71, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Longyear of Woodstock, was promoted to the rank of first lieutenant in the Norwich University, Vermont, Corps of Cadets for the academic year 1970-71.

To receive rank as a commissioned or non-commissioned officer in the Corps of Cadets at Norwich a cadet must be proficient in academic and military subjects and must have demonstrated exemplary qualities of leadership.

Patricia A. Boyd, a senior at Ithaca College has been selected to appear in the 1970-71 edition of Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges. She was honored recently at a special convocation along with 33 others from Ithaca College selected for the designation on the basis of scholarship, leadership and academic activities.

A chemistry major, she is a graduate of Kingston High School. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Boyd of 18 Overlook Drive, Kingston.

A West Hurley girl has been selected for membership in Psi Chi, national psychology honorary society at St. Lawrence University. She is Sharon L. Kintner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean M. Kintner, RD 1, West Hurley. To be eligible for membership a student must have a 3.0 overall academic average and a 3.2 average in psychology.

Onteora Opens Choices for Spring But the Time to Act Is in November

BOICEVILLE have numbered twenty-three and twenty-eight. As a result, this course is being discontinued. It will be replaced by Reading Analysis, which can be counsellors and present English teachers, will be able to choose their courses and their teachers. The decision to extend the choice to teachers was based on the department's desire to make the program even more responsive to individual student need and interest.

Last week, selective-course teachers conducted a survey of student choices for the spring semester. The survey was made even though last spring students chose their courses for both the fall and spring semesters. The purpose was to give students a chance to reconsider the choices they had originally made for the spring, since, in the month and a half that the program has been in effect, they and their parents have been able to learn more about the selectives being offered. It also gave the staff an opportunity to make course changes on the basis of their evaluation of the fall's selectives.

Three changes in the offerings have been made. The teachers of this fall's Bible and Mythology course found that the students would benefit more from a concentration in each of these areas than they are from the present course which covers both. As a result, two separate courses, An Introduction to the Bible and Mythology in Literature, will be offered this spring.

A reevaluation of the Reading Comprehension course revealed that the goals of the course could not be achieved to the staff's satisfaction in large classes. To teach reading effectively, a group of five to six students is the only feasible arrangement. The Reading Comprehension classes this fall will be graded by experienced Regent's teachers according to Regent's standards. The graded examination will be returned to the students on the following Monday so that they can assess their overall strengths and weaknesses as well as their strengths and weaknesses in the specific areas and tested on the examination. Parents will also be notified of the results.

During the last week of November, each student will receive a schedule which will indicate the period or periods each course will be offered and the teacher or teachers who will be conducting each section. This schedule will be produced on the basis of the results of the survey given this week. Each student and his parents will then check the courses being offered during those periods when he is not scheduled for a class in some other subject area and choose the English selective he wishes or needs to take.

Another innovation has been introduced in order to give students and their parents a better basis on which to make a decision concerning the English Comprehensive Regents course. On November 18 all juniors and all seniors who did not take the comprehensive examination last June will be encouraged to take a "mock" Regents. It will be administered under conditions that simulate

It has all the makings for a classic confrontation of the generations, silver-screen style. The father was packing them in at the box office two decades ago, before you had to have long hair to be a sex symbol. The son is used to being mistaken for a girl, a natural mistake because of his fashion-model features, lengthy tresses, and affinity for floppy hats. Both are talented actors. In spite of all of this, Roc and Yul Brynner have no generation gap. They regard each other, not as relatives, but as close friends. Roc is far from being a carbon copy of his father, but is achieving his own fame in the acting field through application of his own numerous and unique talents.

Roc Brynner (named after a Mongolian warlord before rock music became popular) was born 23 years ago in New York City during the short-lived marriage between British actress Virginia Gilmore and Yul Brynner. Roc is his nickname—he was christened Yul Jr., and his godfather was a family friend, Jean Cocteau, the French writer and artist who was to play a major part in Roc's life 20 years later.

Roc's acting career got off to an early start two decades ago when he played one of the princes in the Broadway version of "The King and I," the play (and later, a movie) that brought Yul Brynner his greatest acclaim. Re-runs of the film on the telly show that Yul, in the role of the savage yet vulnerable Mongolian king, really proved that bald can be beautiful.

If Roc's acting career got off to an early start, it got off to an earlier start. Following his parents' somewhat bitter divorce, Roc was taken to Europe where he was educated, primarily in Switzerland. He began writing semiprofessionally when he was 12, and words, in all languages, became a passion with him. By this time he has mastered nine languages, notably classical Chinese, a language threatened with extinction because of the lack of interested, able scholars, even in its homeland.

Roc returned to America as a young man, and tried college at Yale, but it tried him, too, so he returned to Europe to finish his studies with a degree from Trinity College in Dublin. Then he moved to Paris, where he began writing and translating in earnest, as well as working at his hobby for recreation. His hobby happens to be programming computers.

It was during this time that Roc found a piece of writing, done in 1929, which he felt had intense value for today's world, particularly for youth. The work was the journal kept by his godfather, Jean Cocteau, during his second battle against opium addiction. While Roc, himself has experimented with pot, (and, he jokes, uses drugs regularly, such as aspirin and Alka Seltzer) he found that the experiences constricted rather than opened his ability to communicate. Today he is ardently opposed to all forms of addiction—not only drugs, but also money, status, and the other factors of our society that trap and imprison men's minds.

Roc used his language talents to translate Cocteau's notebook into English, and then to adapt this into a two-act play, named, like the book, "Opium." It was a two-act play for one person, and when it opened for the first time a year ago at the Dublin Theatre Festival, that one role was played by the same young man who had translated the book and written the play—Roc Brynner. Early this year, the play opened in a tiny London theater jammed to the walls with such notables as Warren Beatty, Sam Spiegel, Faye Dunaway—and the solo actor's best friend—Yul Brynner. Watching his son become a star, Yul's eyes overflowed—not, as one might expect, with professional jealousy, but with joy. After the final curtain call, skin-headed father and long-tressed son embraced backstage as Yul sobbed, "I'm so proud of you, so proud."

Roc is proud of his father, too, and of the truly friendly relationship they have attained over the years. When Yul hit romantic snags a few years ago, it was Roc he flew to see, and they discussed the situation all night over a bottle of red wine. Now it is Roc who is "sort of engaged" to Marlene Branca, who will soon be divorcing the father of her two-year-old son. Roc, who first acted on stage with his father, will be doing his first film, which he wrote, also with Yul.

Most young men in Roc's sandals would think that they had really arrived, but Roc feels that he is just starting to accumulate the training he needs to achieve his ultimate ambition. No, he doesn't want to be a translator, a writer, an artist, a programmer, a teacher, or even an actor. Roc Brynner would like to use all those talents as a director. With his sense of direction, he'll make a good one.

RVHS: Full Agenda

STONE RIDGE Nov. 19, 20, and 21, the senior class of Rondout Valley Central High School will present Little Mary Sunshine, book, music and lyrics by Rick Besoyan. The curtain will go up each evening at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

The choir of the High School are raising money to purchase choir robes by selling candies at school and throughout the district. A goal of $1000 has been set, and to date a profit of over $200 has been realized from the sale of more than $700 worth of candy. Choir members will be selling at all home basketball games this season as well as door-to-door.

The first choral concert of the season will be a "first" in another respect. The annual holiday concert will be held on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 20, beginning at 3 p.m. in the high school auditorium. This will mark the first time a concert has been presented at an afternoon hour. Vocal music director, Mrs. Barbara Lottridge hopes that the change in time will bring out a greater attendance this year.

Ten Rondout Valley Central High School students have been chosen to participate in the 1970 Area All-State Band, Chorus and Orchestra Festival as chorus members. The festival, scheduled to be held on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 20 and 21, at F. D. Roosevelt Memorial High School Hyde Park, will culminate in a concert featuring all three musical groups to be performed at 8 p.m. on Nov. 21.

Selected for Area All-State are Tom Brush, Carolyn Civill, Kristin Countryman, Diane Eldridge, Susan Harrison, Gary Kraft, David LaVoie, Ray Passer, Jill Ryder, and Catherine Salvatore.

Area residents may attend the concert. Tickets will be available at the door.

among the cast are assorted comedians, Rangers, Indians, and, for good measure, a chorus of glistering youngsters.

Last night the school cafeteria was the scene of a Class of '72 dance which followed the bonfire and pep rally. The last football game of the season is being played today pitting the pure, the hero a rugged out-doorsman, and numbered dials.

Hurley Youth In Urban Study

HANOVER, N.H. problems at the John F. Kennedy Senior High School. In his mouth, College junior from extra time, James is taking part in various community projects of his own choosing.

In addition to these activities, James will be expected to write two papers in fulfillment of the academic requirements of the term, one of which will be a weekly journal of his stay in Richmond. He will receive full academic credit for his term's work, with his performance being judged by the Project Faculty Advisor and the teachers at Kennedy High School. Upon the resumption of his regular studies this winter, James and the others in his group will act as discussion leaders for the next group of interns.

James, the son of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy L. James of 9 Circle Drive is a 1968 graduate of Kingston High School. At Dartmouth, he has been one of the leading pitchers of the Indian baseball team, and had been an active member of the Newman Club.

REMEMBER WHEN teenagers got their kicks by painting slogans on water towers, hill-sides and other almost inaccessible places? Well, it seems they still do. The historic Roebuck aqueduct remains in High Falls have been used to proclaim to the world that so-and-so loves so-and-so. The situation seemed to call for a reverse Halloween prank and it was pulled off last Sunday. Descending on the scene with wire brushes, paint remover and other tools of the trade, members of the High Falls Civic Association, Delaware and Hudson Canal Society, and youth groups of local churches labored in an Anti-Eye Pollution Rock Clean Up. Working with a will are (top) Ronnie Hunrock and Robbie Van Kleek and (bottom) Gary Lyra and Peter Sarr. Also lending elbow grease to the project were Marjorie Hasbrouck, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lynch, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Sarr, John and Gary Lynch, and the membership of the Civic Association. That Wine and Cheese Tasting Party Again

ALWAYS A POPULAR EVENT — As this crowded scene from last year attests — is the annual Wine and Cheese Tasting Party of the Ulster County Council of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society. As in the past, the festive spread will lure nibblers and sippers to the Crystal Room of the Governor Clinton Hotel. This year, the gala affair is set for tomorrow from 5 to 7 p. m. Open to the public for a small donation, it offers an hour or two of convivial fun; has the added attraction of helping support this area's own Hudson Valley Philharmonic Orchestra. So why not go and enjoy? It's a fun happening with palate appeal. (Photo by James Kaman).

The YWCA will hold its annual World Fellowship observance on Sunday, at 3 p.m., at the "Y" building, 209 Clinton Avenue. Mrs. Rita Senor, chairman of the World Fellowship committee, has announced that the guest speaker will be Miss Sylvia Labor, of Sierra Leone. Miss Labor, a student at SUNY, New Paltz, will discuss the YWCA activities of her native land, as well as give her observations on "Y" members in society today.

"Who, Me?" is the slogan for World Fellowship for 1970. However, this program is not confined to one week or one day on the calendar. In 80 countries of the world, the YWCA has taken the lead in many, varied experimental programs, and in aiding the continuance of traditional "Y" themes.

On display for World Fellowship Day will be the collection of foreign dolls amassed by Mrs. Clair Sheaffer. Colorful, exciting, and novel, this entire collection will form an interesting accompaniment to the speaker and program for the day.

The "Y-Teens", under the direction of Miss Rita Mary Senor, will lead the music and devotions, which are an integral part of World Fellowship. This year's program will be a true "happening"! Teens will also offer free baby-sitting at the "Y" during the World Fellowship program, and, under the leadership of Mrs. Griffith Halloran, will serve refreshments following the program.

An interesting and totally different activity is promised.

Rummage Sale

The Mothers' Club of Troop 12 Indians and Post 12 Kingston Indians will hold a rummage sale Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 9-10 at municipal auditorium, Broadway, Kingston, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Dixon-Cook Wedding Told

Miss Sharon Dixon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Dixon of Cohoes, formerly of Kingston, and Frank C. Cook, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Cook of Schenectady, were married October 17 in Emmanuel Baptist Church, Schenectady.

The Rev. John Miller officiated. Honor attendants were Mrs. Robert Avery, sister of the bride, and Edson Cook, Miss Katherine Cook was a bridesmaid and James Cook served as an usher. Sherila Dixon, sister of the bride, was train bearer.

The bride wore a cathedral gown, styled with a pleated front accented with ruffles and featuring a train. Her crown headpiece was trimmed with rhinestones.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride is employed at Standard Rosenbaum Company, wholesale distributors, in Latham. Her husband is employed at Firestone Rubber and Retread Company in Latham.

When they return from a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, they will reside in Cohoes.

B'nai B'rith Women Plan Thrift Sale

B'nai B'rith Women will hold a rummage sale on Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 9 and 10 at 261 Fair Street, Kingston. The sale will be open from 10 a. m. until 4 p. m.

Chairmen of the event, Mrs. C. Ross Ellis and Pearl Adin, have announced that nearly new clothing, toys, and household items will be available.

Further plans of the organization include a general membership meeting to be held Wednesday evening, Nov. 18 at the Jewish Community Council Building on Maiden Lane. Jean Gavaagar, of Central Hudson Gas and Electric will speak on Modern Age Electric Cooking. She will also demonstrate new, fast methods of cooking using the Amana Micro-Wave Oven for her demonstration.

Mrs. David Gally, president of the group, has announced that a Dolls for Democracy program was sponsored for the fourth, fifth, and sixth grade classes at the Chambers School on Oct. 28. The "doll ladies" who portrayed various figures of diverse racial and religious personalities who contributed to American society were the Mmes: Samuel Gally, Harris Gally, Mason Millens, Bernhardt Kramer, Sol Schechter, and Mrs. William Gould. Mrs. Seymour Semilof was narrator and Mrs. Henry Singer was the pianist.

Grand Union President Optimistic

NEW YORK CITY There is an excellent chance that The Grand Union Company will equal or better its 8 per cent first half sales gain during the final six months of 1970. Charles G. Rodman, President of the billion-dollar food and general merchandise retailing chain, said today in a talk to The New York Society of Security Analysts.

Sales during the first six months rose 8 per cent to a record $583-million, 424-thousand.

"When it comes to profits, we make no predictions," Rodman told the analysts. "The figures will speak for themselves."

During the company's 1970 first half, through Aug. 29, after-tax net income was up 5 per cent to $7-million, 616-thousand and per share earnings were up to $1.17 from $1.08, a gain of 8 per cent.

Initially, 1970 plans had called for increasing sales and profits by at least 10 per cent, Rodman said. However, in the company's 47-store Washington, D.C. division, accounting for 10 per cent of supermarket sales, a major price war erupted in the summer and a short but costly strike took place in September.

Between 1959 and 1969, the company nearly doubled its sales—from 603-million to $1-billion, 113-million—and more than doubled its net profit. The latter rose from $7-million, 354-thousand to just over $15-million.

Gardiner Firm Earns Honors

WASHINGTON, D. C.

The T. H. Andersen Landscape Co. of Gardiner received the nation's highest award for landscape excellence from Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel during the American Association of Nurserymen's 18th annual Landscape Awards Program recently, in Washington, D.C.

The Gardiner firm received the award for landscaping of the Albany Campus of the State University of New York.

Landscape on the 368-acre campus includes formal arrangements of trees along walkways, varied plantings in each of the dormitory courts, and a formal faculty garden. A raised courtyard in the center of the academic buildings features a large pool surrounded by planters filled with trees and shrubs.

The landscaping project was one of 201 entries in the 1970 Landscape Awards Program, of which only nine were selected to receive first place Landscape Awards, and 36 were singled out for second place Certificates of Merit.

The American Association of Nurserymen, a trade association of nurserymen in the United States and Canada, sponsors the awards program annually to stimulate commercial and institutional organizations to make greater contributions to improving the quality of the environment. The association recently launched a national "Green Survival" program to encourage citizens to play an individual role in improving the environment by using and preserving plant life on their own property and in their communities.

The Board of Directors also declared a stock dividend of five per cent on the outstanding common stock of the company.

Prefab Home Meeting Topic

NEWBURGH The meeting, which is a dinner meeting, is scheduled to commence at 6:30 p.m. The meeting of the November Home Builders Association of the Hudson Valley is composed of builders, realtors, building supply dealers, representatives of banks and utilities and others associated with the home building industry. The Association covers the five counties of Dutchess, Orange, Putnam, Sullivan, and Ulster.

A presentation on the prefabricated home will be made by the National Homes Corporation, the country's largest manufacturer of prefabricated homes and modular housing. The presentation will be made by Jack Herrick, District Sales Manager for the National Homes Corporation. Herrick will be assisted by Nicholas Lentino, National Homes Sales Representative.

"Prefabricated homes and modular housing are playing an ever increasing part in the home building industry," Caudy said in making his announcement of the importance of prefabrication, both now and in the future. I think that all of us connected with on-site construction of homes should learn all we can as to what the future holds for the prefabrication segment of our industry," he added.

Dear Abby

Twin Beds Not Answer

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am in complete sympathy with "CHEAT-ED," who said when his wife decided to get twin beds, something happened to their marriage. My husband asked for twin beds because he thought he would be able to sleep better, but our marriage has deteriorated miserably since we stopped sleeping together. From the twin beds he moved into the spare room and things have gone from bad to worse. We argue constantly and go for days without speaking. It's hard to stay angry at a person when you can reach out at night and feel his warm body next to yours. I doubt that he is sleeping better because I can hear him moving about at all hours. I am also up tossing and turning. I am sorry we ever gave up our big double bed, but my pride prevents me from suggesting we try it again since it was his idea to give it up.

DEAR ALSO: There is more suffering going on in the name of "pride" than for any other single reason. Tell your husband how you feel and quit wasting precious time. And if you both toss and turn half the night, at least you'll have company.

DEAR ABBY: Last Saturday night my husband and I went for a ride in the car and decided to drop in on another couple. My husband went to the door to see if they were home. The lady of the house answered the door and said they were just watching TV, and to come in, so we did.

The room was dimly lit and the man of the house was sitting in a big chair with nothing on but a pair of undershorts. We sat there visiting for a good two hours or more and he never did get up to go put on a pair of pants. I was terribly embarrassed. What would you have done in a situation like this?

EMBARRASSED
DEAR EMBARRASSED: Probably exactly as you did. Just sat there expecting "Nature Boy" to excuse himself at any moment to put on a pair of pants. But since he didn't, I would have learned a lesson: When one drops in on friends without telephoning first, he can expect anything.

DEAR PUZZLED: No, it's up to the neighbors to make a newcomer welcome. Since they ignored you, a friendly greeting when you see them is about as far as you should go. If you were to ring a neighbor's bell and say, "Hello," you might be taken for a ding-a-ling.

DEAR ABBY: Why is it that most wedding and engagement pictures appearing in the newspapers show only the bride? Wouldn't it make more sense and be much more interesting to have a picture of the couple, side by side?

JOHN FROM OHIO
DEAR JOHN: Yes, but there's a practical reason why most newspapers use only pictures of the brides: Pictures of couples take up too much valuable space. Also the quality of the picture often suffers when there are two, not one person, in them.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope. Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." (Dear Abby Mon. thru Sat. at 9:10 a.m. WKNY-1490.)

SATURDAY, NOV. 7
GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day to be most careful you do not get into any sort of argument with others, for they as well as you could have a resentful attitude and can give you, as well as themselves, a bad time. Maintain your cool, rise above petty annoyances and trouble can be avoided.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Although your present work set-up can be troublesome at times, it could be even more trying if you make radical changes now. Straighten out existing problems to the best of your ability. Then all is fine.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You must control your temper with good friends today, since they are in a difficult mood. You have some all-consuming desire, but this is really not good for you. Calm down and think clearly.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Safeguard your good name now or you get in trouble where credit is concerned. Avoid business affairs that could lead to arguments today. Wait for a better day for these.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You want to try almost anything today because you are bored. But this would only get you into trouble. Relax and get routine work done well. Then think out fine ideas for the future calmly.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get ready for a hard day's work so that you meet all of your obligations with flying colors. Control your temper where a problem of jealousy arises. Then it is solved properly. Be wise.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) If you speak gently with associates, you find you can make this a productive day. There are several problems that have you upset. Calm down and you soon find the right solutions.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have been procrastinating about certain tasks. This is a good day to delve into them with enthusiasm. Show finest talents and gain approval of those who count. Avoid going off on tangents.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) That plan you have which you think will please others would only react in the wrong way with them, so forget it. Get into some activity that brings success at very little cost. Don't involve others in it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Much care must be exercised while in travel today or you could get into much trouble. Make sure to make your home as safe as possible. Do some studying tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Planetary positions could cause you to feel irritable today, so control your temper at all costs. Think well before you make important telephone calls or write letters. Don't leave yourself open for any lawsuits.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You feel you have to spend a lot of money to make money today, but it is actually a day for being very economical instead. See what it is that others have to suggest who have plenty of business experience. Follow their good advice.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Try to be with persons who are happy and cheerful today and forget needless worries. Safeguard your reputation. You find that by evening the world looks much brighter to you.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those fascinating young people who will have a positive talent for getting into all kinds of trouble early if the proper ethical and religious training are not given early. Teach to test hunches against good judgment and then the chart becomes more successful and important persons will be interested in your child. Selling is fine here.

SUNDAY, NOV. 8
GENERAL TENDENCIES: A wonderful day and evening for you to expand mentally, spiritually, or healthwise. Be sure to make up your mind on what is most important to you. Then, go after it with the knowledge that you can hardly make a mistake now. However, be extremely careful in travel.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Follow your intuition for the ideas you need to make the future more successful and happy. See what it is that allies desire of you and plan to cooperate more. Sit down with them today in a leisurely atmosphere.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Good day to be with friends and exchange ideas so that you are happier and more successful in the days ahead. You need more social life. Plan it now and without spending too much money.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Go and see bigwigs today who are too busy during the work week and gain the support you want. Being where you can show your finest talents is wise. Make this a most productive day and evening.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Making it your business to be with very wise individuals and gaining their advice can prove invaluable for the future. Also, a good time for expansion, so plan it wisely. Sit down and make notes.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Use your intuition and know how to make your life more prosperous in the future. Put aside visionary ideas. Showing devotion to mate is important tonight. Harmony is the keynote.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) If you stop criticizing and start cooperating more with others, you can have fine harmony with associates now. Reconciliation with those who have not agreed with you is wise. Do your best.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A good day to do your utmost to make those you love happier in whatever way you can. Take time to improve your health so that you can have much more success in the future.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) An early start being in the company of persons you like can make this a most enjoyable day for you. New recreations can give you mental and physical challenge you like. Spend wisely.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Do whatever will relieve tensions between you and kin and be willing to listen to what they have to say. Add those artistic touches to your home that make it more charming. Relax in the evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Attending services early gives you inspiration you need. Then be sure to sit with wise persons and discuss future plans. Get advice you need, also. Delving into hobbies is fine in the evening.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A perfect day to think big so that you can get big in the future. Arrange to see an influential person in business who can give you the backing you need. Talk your plans over quietly.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get in touch with congenials early whom you want to accompany you to fun places you enjoy. Take the time to dress properly for the occasion. Take exercises that make you more fit. Try to get to bed early tonight so you get a good start in the morning.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those young people who could be easily spoiled. Teach early the ways of asserting more responsibility, otherwise your progeny will pay dearly for favors later on. There is fine mental ability here as well as understanding for others, so give the finest educational opportunities possible and your progeny could become a famous and important person. Teach ethics early.

DEAR ABBY: About a year ago we moved to California. We moved into a very nice house in a nice neighborhood. We would have appreciated it if only one neighbor had rung our bell and said, "Hello." We've been here a year now and we still don't know any of our neighbors. Since nobody rang our bell, should we, as newcomers, have

East's Defense Thwarts Squeeze

By Oswald and James Jacoby
Boris Koytchou of New York holds the distinction of having represented both France and the United States in international competition.

He sat East today and was able to visualize an approaching squeeze and signal the defense to break it up.

South went right up with dummy's king of clubs and led the nine of diamonds. If Boris could have been sure his partner would shift to a heart if he won that first diamond, he would have played low. However, he was sure his partner would keep on with clubs. So, Boris made the play of rising with his king. When the king held, Boris cleared the clubs for his partner. South continued with diamonds. West held off once and had to win the third diamond lead.

It was up to Boris to make a discard and most anyone would have played a high heart

Timely Quotes

We would suggest that the mayor spend less time promoting himself and more time trying to solve the problems of New York City.

to ask for a heart shift after clubs were all taken. Boris made the very different play of the heart deuce. He continued by discarding the three and seven, while West was taking his two good clubs. South had to drop a spade on the last club. West studied awhile. It was very obvious that he wanted to lead a heart but West sighed and led the three of spades. Boris' nine forced South's ace. South cashed his diamonds but had to let Boris score the setting trick with the spade queen.

Suppose that West had led a heart, instead of a spade. South could rise with dummy's ace, enter his own hand with the ace of diamonds and squeeze Boris out of either the heart king or the guard for the spade queen.

$3.5 Million Awaits Christmas Club Members

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON

They say money can't buy happiness, but some 30,000 Ulster County residents will be grinning from ear to ear next week when they receive an estimated three and a half million dollars as their reward for planning ahead and starting a Christmas Club savings account.

November 13 is the date when most county and city banks will be forwarding cash bonanzas to customers intent on starting their holiday shopping spree well ahead of schedule. The money, collecting additional dimes and dollars in interest in county banks since last fall, will bring a degree of Christmas cheer to area merchants as well.

While exact figures are not available, it is expected that the total Christmas Club cash outlay for this year will easily outdistance the 1969 total. Most banks reported an increased number of customers and a subsequent increase in the amount of money stored away from the Christmas season.

Among city banks, the Kingston Trust Company will mail out more than $1,019,000 to its 6,100 Christmas Club savers, banking at the main office in Kingston and the four branches in Hurley, Ulster, Phoenixia and Stone Ridge. The total is an increase of more than $300,000 over last year's amount.

Rondout National Bank also recorded its highest yearly total this season, with its 2,850 customers expected to receive more than $400,000. The amount will be distributed among customers at the bank's New Paltz, Port Ewen and Woodstock branches. The Rondout Savings Bank, however, recorded a loss in Christmas Club revenue with a $162,000 total for 1970 against a $180,000 total for 1969.

The Savings and Loan Association of Kingston will pay out more than $207,000 to customers at its four branch offices, but this total shows a slight drop from the $710,000 amount paid last year. Kingston Savings Bank will pay about $20,000 more than last year, with its 1,800 customers slated to receive more than $196,000.

Special

Ulster County Savings Bank formed a Christmas Club with a twist—this year they've instituted a Hanukkah Club as well. Some 2,000 patrons are expected to receive $210,000 as their bonus for this year.

In banks around the county, customers at the Saugerties Savings Bank will receive $190,000, an 18 per cent increase for the bank's 1,800 customers over last year's total. The Saugerties National Bank and Trust Company, meanwhile, will be paying about the same amount as last year, more than $215,000 for its 1,700 customers.

The Woodstock, West Hurley and Shokan branches of the National Bank of Orange and Ulster Counties will pay $49,275 while the Rosendale branch comes close to matching that amount with $43,744 earmarked for more than 300 customers.

The New Paltz Savings Bank, including its Woodstock office, will pay more than 600 customers in excess of $85,000. Across the river, the First National Bank of Rhinebeck will pay 580 customers more than $90,000.

The biggest contributor to happiness in the area is the State of New York National Bank, spanning four Kingston offices, a New Paltz branch and four Poughkeepsie offices. The bank will pay more than $1,072,000 to its 7,500 customers a $140,000 increase over 1969's total.

While smart savers are ready to reap the rewards of their Christmas Club checks, area banks are already urging customers to begin saving for next year's holiday season. With each Christmas Club check this year averaging about $150, the incentive is more than apparent.

City Beat

By HUGH REYNOLDS

Freeman City Hall Reporter

FOR THE Next couple of weeks or so the politicians will be scanning Tuesday's election returns with an eye toward figuring out some kind of voting pattern that they can use to their own advantage in the future.

The local Democrats, know, of course, that they were bombed out again. Most, if the truth is to be known, probably knew the election would be anticlimactic. One candidate told us he gave up the ghost when the Daily News ran its first poll showing Arthur Goldberg way behind. "What was the use," he told us. "Unless Goldberg ran big in Ulster County, I was dead." He was no doubt recalling the Johnson landslide over Goldwater in 1964 that carried the late Joe Resnick into office. That and a couple of hundred thousand bucks.

The Democratic answer, of course, is to fight. Not with the Republicans but with each other. They'll bite and kick and gouge and stab until they come up with another nominal head of the party to preside over the next disaster.

AARON KLEIN, the present chairman, we would guess, is a gone goose. Aaron, we heard, took wing even before the semi-annual Election Day Blitz. The word was that Klein was grooming Joe Stoeckler of Ellenville as a successor.

Unfortunately, for Klein, losers can't be choosy. There's a guy named Jimmy McCordle waiting in the wings to take over. Klein beat McCordle for chairman about two years ago, the only race either has won since. (It's odd, the same names keep coming up when you discuss Democratic power moves. Only the dates are changed.)

It appears that Klein (or Klein's handpicked successor) and McCordle may not be in this chairman race exclusively. In this year's Democratic Follies, it probably means John Bonilla from Woodstock (who was the key in Lenefsky's good showing out there by 140 votes) and Maurice Hinchey of Saugerties (they seem to pick up a Democrat every year). The third force may well be the candidate themselves, none of whom seems inclined toward blind bitterness.

They were the same guys that walked around in August trying to scare up enough people for a game of bridge. Talk about crowds. One candidate told us the story of a candidate's night he rushed down to in the southern end of the county. Six people were there. Four of them were Democratic candidates. And that was late in October. The candidates will have a lot to say about that Democratic organization.

OVER ON THE other side, the Republicans, are refusing to rest on their laurels. It must have been a trifle chilling to the Demos to hear Clark Bell say that he was going FORWARD to build a strong Republican organization in Ulster.

It may get worse in two years. After all, the GOP only won about 2-1 this time around. Kingston is the sore spot. The mote in the GOP eye. The enrollment is there, just like out in the county. It's 2-1 in Kingston. But the Demos hold sway.

Why? "Because we've been nominating boobs for office," was the way one top GOPer put it Election Night. "The Republicans in Kingston will vote for a good candidate," the guy told us. "This election proved it. They came pouring out from all over."

The GOP strategy for '71 against Mayor Koenig's administration (people still say Frank won't go for another term, but we don't buy it) will be to run a "nice" campaign, (nothing wild, keep the charges down, gentlemen's campaign) against the mayor but to come up with the best aldermanic candidates possible and back them to the hilt.

That's basically a holding action. The big move will be in 1973. With any kind of luck, the GOP can have control of the Common Council next time. Then in '73, Koenig has two choices, quit, or go for a third term, the latter, a move which has proved a disaster in the past. Add to that the fact that if Koenig seeks a third term he will be asking the voters to accept five straight terms of Democratic mayors.

ONE LAST WORD on politics, '70, for now. The GOP County Chairman, Al Spada, is sometimes taken too much for granted. Spada, as it turns out, has a first class political mind (that's a compliment this time). One might note whom the new supreme court judge is going to be: John L. Larkin of Ulster County.

That was Al's baby all the way. As we heard it, Sullivan County had first shot but the boys in Sullivan got to bickering amongst each other and wound up deadlocked.

And then along came Big Al with John L. and solid support. Hello, John L., Goodbye Sullivan. Let's hear it for Big Al and congratulations for Justice John L.

Biggest Push Since U.S. Spring Incursion
South Viets in New Cambodian Drive

By KIM WILLENSON

SAIGON (UPI)—The South Vietnamese push into Cambodia launched Friday is smaller than originally announced, a military spokesman said today.

At the same time, a top South Vietnamese commander said the army is planning a major sweep of Communist strongholds in Cambodia when the dry season begins, probably in January.

Original estimates by South Vietnamese officials were that crossed into Cambodia early Friday to hit Communist positions in the Plain of Reeds major coastal patrol operation near the Parrot's Beak area, in the Gulf of Thailand to the east. Today, however, they said that South Vietnamese, and said only 1,500 fresh South Vietnamese troops crossed the border about 1,600 more American troops were brought home from the war.

"several thousand" troops according to military sources.

Plans for a new Cambodian drive in January were disclosed by Gen. Do Cao Tri, commander of the South Vietnamese troops operating in the general area, but had not made any contact as of noon today, responsible for Vietnamese operations in Cambodia east of the Mekong River. He gave his personal assurance there would never be another Tet offensive-style Communist attack on Saigon, which is inside the 11-2 province area of South-Central Vietnam.

Tri, speaking to foreign correspondents, said "I give you this assurance: No more fighting around Saigon and in the III Corps area. And I also give you this assurance. I will strike the enemy during the next dry season, but not in this country."

He amplified the remark by saying if he could get the high command's permission to do so, he would like to pursue the Communists as far north as they withdraw.

South Vietnamese military sources said the government task force already had teamed up with several battalions of Vietnamese marines brought down the Mekong River from Saigon's major forward base in Cambodia at Neak Luong, 35 miles southeast of Phnom Penh.

The objective of the operation was to break the back of Communist units entrenched in the area around Takeo, disrupt movement along Highways 11-2 and 3 and presenting a continuing threat to the region south of the Cambodian capital.

Military sources in Phnom Penh said the South Vietnamese marines traveled by river to within 20 miles of Phnom Penh Friday.

In South Vietnam only minor action was reported today. South Vietnamese spokesmen said government troops killed 31 guerrillas and captured five living South Vietnamese troops.

Unemployment Report:
Dems Blast President

WASHINGTON (AP)—Political charges over unemployment continued today after the government's post-election report that the nation's jobless rate edged up to 5.6 per cent of the work force in October.

Democratic House Speaker John W. McCormack, who had predicted a rise to 6 per cent and charged the Nixon administration held up the report until after Tuesday's elections, said the official report didn't include some 600,000 "discouraged" unemployed.

The White House denied the report was deliberately held up until after the elections.

Republican National Chairman Rogers C.B. Morton retorted that Democrats, in pre-election forecasts of a 6 per cent jobless rate, had played "an economics politics of fear."

Friday's Labor Department report said the actual total of jobless Americans remained roughly the same at 4.3 million, but seasonal factors pushed the rate up one-tenth of 1 percentage point to 5.6 per cent.

It blamed the General Motors strike for the rise in the jobless rate and for a drop of 610,000 in manufacturing employment during the month.

It also said total employment rose 660,000, including farm workers and the self-employed, but that the key payroll employment figure was down nearly 500,000 to 70.6 million.

In all said the Bureau of Labor Statistics, it added up to little change in the over-all job situation and didn't indicate much about the health of the economy because the strike of some 325,000 auto workers distorted the picture.

"The effects of the automobile strike really dominated the employment situation over the month and really obscure... underlying economic changes," said Assistant Commissioner Harold Goldstein of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the unemployment report probably wouldn't have been damaging to Republican candidates even if it had been released before the elections.

But Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien thought otherwise.

"Another report of a steadily rising national unemployment rate, combined with the results of Tuesday's national referendum on the Nixon administration's domestic policies, surely must convince the administration that it's economic 'game plan' is a failure and has to be changed," O'Brien said.

O'Brien and McCormack urged Nixon to join with the Democratic-controlled Congress to enact programs to create more jobs and ease unemployment.

McCormack noted that the nation's jobless rate had climbed from 3.3 to 5.6 per cent under Nixon's administration and said election results indicate the nation's voters have little confidence in administration economic policies.

Full Week's TV Listing From Nov. 8 Thru Nov. 14

THE GRANIT has always been one of Ulster County's most spectacular resorts—grandiose in the Catskills tradition. This year, it's been totally redone; is more magnificent, more plush than ever. So changed, so modern has it become, it's renamed itself Granit 2. If you haven't been there recently, you won't recognize the surroundings. Spacious new dining rooms, too, are a boon for the area—as those who'll be attending Benedictine Hospital's Million Dollar Millennium Nov. 15 will discover. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Bright New Addition to Ulster Scene

Brightly modern, it nestles among the forested mountains that surround Kerhonkson. Inside its grand entrance—a magnificent new lobby—bon amis join their fellows for sumptuous dining, a splash through the water of the tropical indoor pool, entertainment, shopping and other lively excitements.

The casual, carefree life has long awaited those who have vacationed, weekenders or simply dined and danced at the Granit—for decades one of Ulster County's finest playlands.

Known far and wide for its resort luxury, gracious appointments and stylish splendor, the Granit has been Ulster's answer to the Concord and Grossinger's in recent years. In its cavernous and swank nightclub, area residents and tourists from afar have enjoyed performances by Broadway and Hollywood stars. Fully equipped for every seasonal sport the year 'round (boating, fishing, ice skating, swimming, tobogganing, golfing), the Granit has always meant fun and relaxation for bachelor or bobby-soxer, small fry or old timer, newlywed or long-married.

It's the Ultimate

One would have thought its casual, carefree life could not have been improved. But the Geller Family, owners and managers of the Granit hotel and country club, decided that—already popular though it was—the Granit could well become the ultimate in vacation magnificence with a change here and there.

What emerged this year was an almost total change. "If you haven't been to the Granit recently, you just haven't been there," say the Gellers.

And they're right. Completely renovated, the Granit has changed right down to its name. Granit 2 now soars against the Kerhonkson skyline, its modernistic facade offering proof that it is a second generation hotel.

Practically tearing down the whole hotel and starting over again, Granit 2 is luxurious and magnificent—from its spectacular new lobby with sky-high water sculpture fountain and its spacious new dining rooms to its hundreds upon hundreds of windows looking out across the scenic landscape of surrounding mountains.

Outdoor Lures

Outdoor lures include a well-manicured golf course, skiing (Granit 2 makes its own snow), ice skating, sledding and a wealth of other sports activities.

Inside you never know who you could bump into, since the sun never sets at the tropical indoor pool, and the dining scene boasts gourmet delights served up in plush surroundings. For Ulster clubs, organizations and corporations, the Granit's three completely new dining rooms are welcome attractions. They can be closed down for intimate groups or opened up to seat as many as 1,400 people. Kitchen facilities grew with the dining scene, and banquets, luncheons and dinners are proliferating these fall days and nights.

The new glitter carries over in the sprawling Golden Tiara Nightclub, the indoor ice skating rink, and the new mood of lively exuberance that's abroad at the Granit.

VICTORIAN ELEGANCE keynotes dining pleasures at Granit 2. Huge chandeliers and paintings by old masters lend intimacy for small groups. New dining rooms can be opened up to seat as many as 1,400 people for a gourmet adventure. The scene here is a recent political dinner. The scene Nov. 15 will celebrate the raising of more than $1 million for the construction of the new Spellman Wing of Benedictine Hospital. (Freeman photo by Haines)

NEW LOBBY at Granit 2 is comfortable as well as splendiferously modern. Towering water sculpture fountain is an intriguing attraction. Obviously enjoying their surroundings on recent visit are (L) Mrs. Thomas Mayone of Saugerties and Mrs. John C. Salapatis of Kingston. (Freeman photo by Haines)

For OCS Band: Biggest Honor Ever!

Its reputation as a proponent of unforgettable big-band sound has been building for almost two decades. It has filled stages and stadiums alike with its music; made local history with its brilliant musicianship, exciting arrangements and clearly defined rhythms.

Winner of an A-6 rating (the highest that can be attained) on 11 occasions in hotly contested competitions staged by the New York State Music Association, it has proved its excellence.

Widely travelled and highly acclaimed in the past, it could well afford to be blasé about new honors. That is not, however, the case. As it heads for West Point's Michie stadium to entertain in a half-time performance during the Army-Oregon football game, both its guiding lights and its members are as excited as a butterfly emerging from a cocoon.

'The Biggest'

"This is the biggest thing we have ever become involved in,"

says musical director Harry Simon. "The kids in the band are as excited as all of the rest of us here at Onteora, and we're putting everything we have into rehearsing for this appearance."

The "appearance," which will take the full, rich sound of Onteora's marching band, its color guard and majorette corps down to the U.S. Military Academy at West Point on Saturday, Nov. 14, has meant extra work and almost daily rehearsals in recent weeks. But the OCS band and its mentors consider the invitation to perform at the half-time show a feather in the cap; are working with a will to bring in a well-written, well-rehearsed spectacular blending superior instrumental musicianship with precise ensemble playing that's both disciplined and swinging at the same time.

For Ron Westervelt, who writes and directs Onteora's half-time shows, that means

MAJORETTES step through imaginary puddles to tune of "Raindrops Keep Falling on My Head." At West Point, number will be performed by (L-R) captain Janet Sebal, Arlene Markowitz, Holly Glass and Ingrid Vogt. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Limited Run Ends This Weekend

THE SEX GAME, otherwise known as the art of seduction, is the central theme of "The Knack," the Ann Jellicoe play now being performed at McKenna Theatre on the State University of New York campus at New Paltz. During a recent rehearsal break, Steve Katz, who portrays an awkward school teacher in the play, and Joan Bolton, cast as a "sweet young thing," discussed their characterizations. Two more performances of the play are scheduled at Paltz—one tonight, Nov. 7 at 8:30 p.m. and another tomorrow, Sunday, Nov. 8 at 2 p.m. Tickets will be on sale at the box office.

Stage-Struck Noah Hero of a Musical

The adventures of a stage-struck Noah and his floating ark provide the inspiration for "Noah's Lark," a musical variety show to be presented by students of Orange County Community College at the Middletown campus during the weekend of November 13-15.

More than 100 students will perform in the song-dance-comedy revue which will be staged at 8:30 p.m. on Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights on the Orange Hall stage at OCCC.

John F. Bernieri, a sophomore from Monroe, will play the role of Noah, who is convinced that the only people worth saving from the flood are entertainers.

Unique 'Crew'

The "crew" of the ark will include a 35-piece rock band, a 50-voice chorus, a 10-member dancing ensemble, an interpretive reading group, plus several soloists and novelty acts.

Marvin K. Feman, professor of music, and John P. Blue, assistant professor of speech, will direct the variety show, assisted by Mrs. Nancy Warner, assistant professor of physical education, and Mrs. Nancy Swartwout, assistant professor of speech.

Co-sponsors of the entertainment are the Leona Miner Music Club and the Apprentice Players, OCCC's

Bright New Addition

For more than a few years, the Granit has been known as one of the best convention hotels. Even more emphasis has been put into this end of the business in the last few years, and business conventions are bypassing Manhattan for the Granit's modern meeting rooms, stages, runways, exhibit areas, and superb audio-visual equipment, including closed circuit television and motion picture facilities.

There's a New Feeling

The Granit is infested with a totally new feeling this year. You can almost smell it in the air, hear it on the horizon, see it in the new fashions, new colors, new music, new ideas, new thinking.

Maybe it's because it's an unalterable fact that people like to "go places and do things." It's all part of the travel explosion (whether you travel to Paris, London or Rome, or just down Route 209 to Granit 2).

Many have enjoyed the hotel's facilities in the past; even more people are enjoying them now — relaxing as they please, making new friends, doing what appeals to them at their own pace and choosing. The choice is up to you. And what a choice! It's a whole new world of complete informality, intimacy and relaxation in the established Catskills tradition.

If you haven't been to the Granit recently — or if you've never been — TEMPO urges you to attend Benedictine Hospital's Million Dollar Millennium dinner-dance there on Sunday, Nov. 15. Mealtimes are especially festive occasions

Bethlehem Animals

The famous songwriting team of Jule Styne and Sammy Cahn has created the score for a 30-minute animation special, "The Night the Animals Talked," which will be on ABC Dec. 9. The parable, written by Sam Rosen, deals with barnyard animals in Bethlehem on a night 2,000 years ago.

Hemmings Stars

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — David Hemmings will star in a new movie titled "Unman, Wittering and Zigo," the names of three students in an English school mystery story.

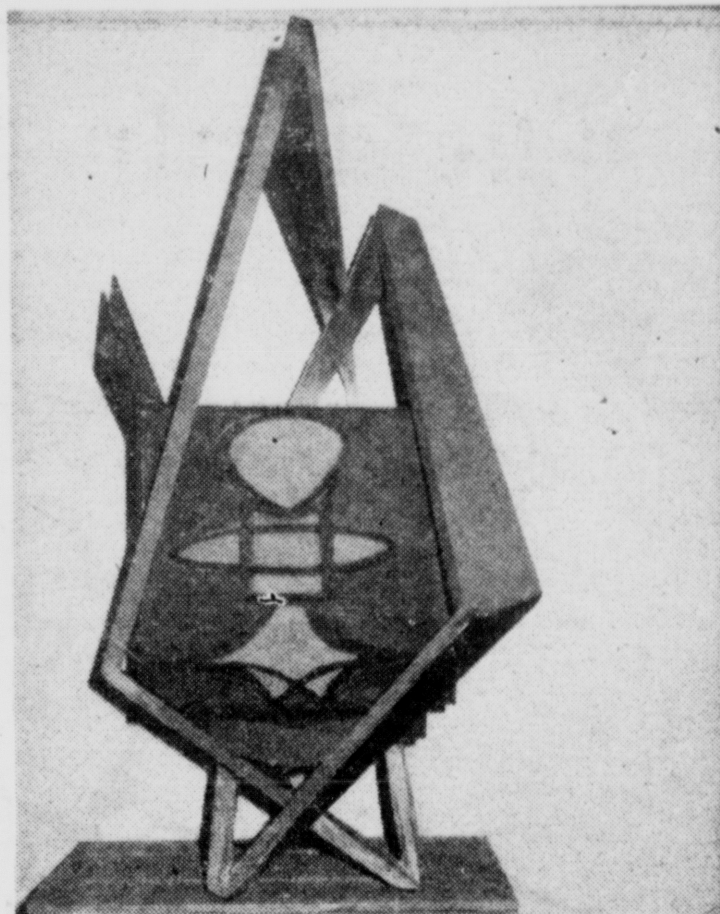

at the Granit (all that excellent cuisine; all the plush, Victorian decor). And the Benedictine dinner (no fund-raising affair, but a festive gala to celebrate the raising of more than $1 million for the construction of the hospital's new Spellman Wing) will see the hotel putting its best foot forward.

A Night to Remember

It'll be a million dollar night to remember. Tickets to the Millennium are priced to simply defray the cost of the dinner-dance, which will feature an open bar cocktail hour from 5 to 6:30 p.m., followed by a gourmet meal, dancing, entertainment and a great floor show. Another highlight of the event will be the awarding of a luxurious $1,500 trip for two to one lucky couple in the crowd — a trip to a place of their choice.

A great idea, it seems to us. A night of fun and enjoyment at the Benedictine Millennium and a chance to see the spectacular new accommodations at Granit 2. So why not call Mrs. William Cranston, 331-0905, for reservations.

Once you've been introduced to this superlative Ulster County resort hotel, you'll find yourself returning again and again — for dinner, for a day, for a weekend. Matter of fact, it's a great place to spend your whole vacation — and it's practically on your doorstep. (T.G.)

PAINTING SCULPTURE by Jessie Baetz, a colorful creation in itself, has been amplified in a novel manner by sculpted frame built around it by her artist husband, Walter Baetz. It is among many such works by the couple in the current Phoenicia Library art show, which will be on view through most of November during regular library hours. Unusual in concept and unique in conception, the show is impressing visitors for its atmosphere of surprise, fantasy and gaiety.

Basketball on TV

CBS has acquired rights for national telecasting in 1970-71 of several games of the rapidly rising American Basketball Association, which probably is only a year or two away from merging with the veteran National Basketball Association. The first broadcast will be the ABA All-Star contest Jan. 23. Some regular season Saturday and Sunday games, and at least two playoff games will be aired.

VIVACIOUS ITALIAN FILM STAR Sophia Loren gestures widely with both hands during press conference on stage of Radio City Music Hall recently, prior to the premiere there of her new film, "Sunflower." Fresh from Manhattan, the movie is now playing at Kingston's Mayfair.

Sunflower

Few co-starring teams in recent years have achieved the stature of Sophia Loren and Marcello Mastroianni. With a magic appeal at the box office, they have been responsible for laughter and tragedy aplenty.

Now they have been brought together again in "Sunflower," the movie currently on screen at both Kingston's Mayfair, and Hyde Park's Roosevelt. While Sophia is still exuberantly beautiful and Marcello is still a handsome and romantic figure, the story line of the film is far from believable.

After years and years and years of believing that her soldier husband died on the Russian front in World War II, Miss Loren suddenly decides he's alive; heads into the Soviet Union to find him. The basic premise alone is pretty hard to believe. But before this comedy-drama soap opera is over, audiences are expected to take a lot more schmaltz in stride.

The Lost Found

As the gray-haired Sophia tours Russian cemeteries, the saccharine screenplay demeans her considerable talents. Eventually she wanders into a small village and — sure enough — there's her long lost soldier hubby. Not hers alone any more, however, since he's sharing a cottage with a wife and child.

We won't tell you how this tale of bigamy ends, but there's a lot of commuting back and forth between Italy and Russia before it's over. Strictly for romantics in this sentimental piece.

Strawberry Statement

Now playing at Woodstock's Tinker Street Cinema is this film, a fairly cogent and sometimes exciting movie about youth today. No simple narrative of campus revolution, it was adapted from the best selling book by Columbia University student James Simon Kunen.

Movies

Kunen's book appeared in diary form; was about his personal experiences during the Columbia student revolts in 1968. It was a fine book, and the movie has the added advantage of being able to utilize the impact of 1969 and 1970 confrontations on campuses across the U.S.

There are some strong truths in this film, and some fine acting. The protagonist, played by youthful Bruce Davison (who will be remembered as the blond troublemaker of "Last Summer"), is perfectly cast as a fairly average university student. Though somewhat liberal, he is more interested in the rowing crew than in causes.

CESAR ROMERO is a horrified front seat passenger as he and members of his underworld gang run into trouble in "The Computer Wore Tennis Shoes," the Walt Disney comedy now playing at Kingston's Community Theatre.

His self-awareness begins coming to the fore during a student strike against the R.O.T.C., defense research, and the university's plan to replace a playground for ghetto children with a military building.

The film gives some understanding into youth's problems today; the riot scenes are startling and well done; and Kim Darby (the "True Grit" girl who charmed John Wayne) charms anew as another of the doubt-ridden students caught up in today's educational problems.

Computer Wore Tennis Shoes

Kingston's Community Theatre is currently offering a Walt Disney comedy that's more turned on than most from his studios in that it takes a good natured jab at the generation gap and the electronically operated "Do Not Bend, Fold or Mutilate" world of today.

Starring Cesar Romero, Joe Flynn (the inept, officious Captain of "McHale's Navy"), and Kurt Russell, a bright, new, 18-year-old find, "Shoes" is an electri-funny mix-up between man and machine.

Romero plays A. J. Arno, a gangland chieftain hiding behind a cloak of respectability as a local businessman. Young Russell and his college friends talk him into donating a computer to their school for their favorite professor (William Schallert).

An Instant Genius

Russell has always been pretty much of a campus goof-off, but when he replaces a fuse on the computer, he is accidentally subjected to an electrified blast wherein the backfiring computer transmits its fantastic stored knowledge and capabilities into his hitherto not-so-smart head. An instant genius is created.

Naturally, he becomes the favorite student of the college dean (Joe Flynn) and the rage of the nation. The dean enters him in a TV program in which he has a chance to win $100,000 for the college. But one question asked trips his memory bank and he unconsciously starts revealing the locations of gambling operations owned by Romero that were stored in the computer.

Of course, Romero decides the human computer must be removed from the scene and that's when the real action begins in a wild melee and chase scene between students and hoods. A fun-filled film for the entire family, "Shoes" proves that crime, computerized or otherwise, does not pay.

AN OBSERVATORY with scientific devices helps Santa in his work in this scene from "Santa Claus," the all-time great Christmas classic playing today and tomorrow only at Kingston's Mayfair. Two complete shows are slated both days at 1:30 and 3:30 p.m. building a continual excitement from opening fanfare to final fade-out. For his wife, Dixie, who's in charge of majorettes, it means dance routines to delight audiences in the bleachers. For Watson Goodrich, whose job is to put the color guard through its paces, it means practice and more practice on difficult maneuvers. And for Harry Simon, longtime musical director of the band, it means mellow trumpets blending with powerhouse sousaphones.

Mellow as the majorettes dance lightly (umbrellas held aloft) through the very effective routine Dixie Westervelt has choreographed to "Raindrops Keep Falling on My Head," the Academy Award-winning song from the hit movie, "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid." Virtuoso on the very difficult "Spinning Wheel," the number made famous by the jazz-rocking Blood, Sweat and Tears.

Dates Back to 1952

Long time fans of the Onteora Band — those who have enjoyed its music over the years since 1952 when the then new Central Schools District building at Boiceville first opened and the band was formed — have no doubts that these high school musicians will do a superior job at West Point. Harry Simon has a reputation for bringing in winners, with brass sections that really jump to the forceful beat set by the director.

Even so, Simon — with all those A6 ratings behind him and with the Kingston Newspaper Guild's 1962 Music Award to his credit — is as excited as his teenage musicians over the West Point invitation. "In my 20 year career," he says, "this is the biggest thing I've been asked to do." He's taken the band into other stadiums (including a half-time show in 1962 at the Springfield College - Hofstra game in Massachusetts) but mammoth Michie stadium at the Point (it seats 42,000 people) offers new challenges.

Still, there is every reason to believe that the challenge will be met. Certainly, the Newburgh newspaperman who has followed the OCS Band, enjoyed it and written about it at glowing length, thinks so. He recommended the band for the job; assured West Point officials the Onteora bandmen could do a superlative entertainment at half-time. And, certainly, West Pointers thought so when they extended the invitation last August.

And it's not going out on a limb to predict that the big crowd at the Army-Oregon game will think so, too, once the band takes to the field. Opening the program with a drum-filled fanfare, the OCS Band will come marching downfield in distinctive style to the melodic tune of "Everything's Coming Up Roses." Dance routines will blend with "Marching Boogie" and "Spinning Wheel," as a rotating wheel is formed mid-field. The bouncy "Raindrops" number and others (including the Oregon and Army theme songs) will intermingle with the formations of a giant "O" and "A" and other patterns.

Booster Club Going

Game time is 2 p.m. at Michie stadium on Nov. 14 and the stands that day will hold a fair share of Onteora followers. The school's Booster Club will account for more than 250 cheering fans, who will make the West Point trip in addition to the official party and band. Other area residents have written directly to West Point for tickets; still have time to do so.

There's a possibility that ABC-TV will tape the show and game for later showing. Definitely carrying the proceedings will be radio, assuring the Onteora musicians that they will be heard in all their close harmony in such places as Washington, D.C. and way back there in Oregon.

Next Saturday, then, will culminate weeks of rehearsal for the band and its leaders. And it'll be an exciting day with the musicians leaving home territory early in the morning; arriving at the Point by 10 a.m. Disembarking from the three buses (a separate truck will carry instruments), they'll make contact with three cadets who'll chaperone them throughout the day. After unloading instruments, there'll be a final rehearsal on a practice field behind the field house.

Before entertaining football fans, they'll be entertained themselves by a dress parade on the dress parade grounds. After a box lunch provided by the OCS Booster Club, it's off to the stadium for the game and show.

Making History Anew

And as statuesque sophomore drum majorette Lisa Schroeder tosses her baton into the air, as brass quartets and big, white sousaphones fall into line, as majorettes twirl their plaid umbrellas, the OCS Band will be out to make history anew.

But then this band has always made history. Considered by many the best in the Catskills, it was only six years old when it began receiving that long line of highest rating A6 awards. There is musical magic in its sound, color and motion — and it has been compared on an equal level with far larger and more experienced college bands.

No one who has followed the band's past accomplishments has any doubts that these talented young musicians will take West Point by storm. Nor does anyone doubt that they will be invited back. Their music fills the air — even in the most towering stadium; is the epitome of the big band sound at its most sophisticated and most distinctive style. Melody line and close harmony produce the soaring, singing sound that has become the stylistic trademark of director Simon and the musicians who have come and gone at OCS under his tutelage.

November 14 will be a happy day for this year's band, but a happier day by far for those they'll be entertaining at the West Point half-time show. (By TOBIE GEERTSEMA)

An Electronic Work For Ballet Troupe

There'll be a special dividend or those planning to attend Poughkeepsie's annual "Invitational Ballet," slated this year, for Sunday, Nov. 15 at 8 p.m. in the Poughkeepsie High School auditorium.

The program will include guest artists from the Schenectady Civic Ballet, as well as works by the host troupe, the Mid-Hudson Regional Ballet Company.

Dancers from the Schenectady Ballet will perform two works at the Nov. 15 "Invitational Ballet," a free cultural presentation open to the public under sponsorship of the Dutchess Bank and Trust Company and the Mid-Hudson Regional Ballet.

With Electronics

Under the artistic direction of Marilyn Ramsey, the Schenectady dancers will perform "In the Heat of the Day" to music by Samuel Barber and costuming by Phil Dickman. Miss Ramsey's company of 20 dancers will also offer "Your Own Thing," a work with electronic accompaniment. Much acclaimed in the upstate area for its excellent performances, the Schenectady troupe is a member of the Northeast Regional Ballet Association; has appeared in previous "Invitational Ballet" performances in Poughkeepsie.

The 1970 version of the event promises to be a diversified program. In addition to three other visiting companies, the hosting Mid-Hudson Company will dance three separate works under the artistic direction of Estelle and Alfonso.

POTPOURRI

By JOAN L. WOINOSKI

After seein' Don MacIsaac decked out as stewardess in Jim Thompson's Kiwanis Kapers—when and if men's styles take to mini-pants—Don's got a head start in gam department. Why he's another Betty Grable! As for Ray Myers, if that was Gloria's hair piece he was wearin', when she gets through with him, two-to-one Ray won't believe in Santa Claus, Easter Bunny, and'll have some grave doubts 'bout Tinker Bell.

Jack St. John as Russian Premier was like baby bear's porridge—just right: Jack looked more Russian than War and Peace. And as a "Mrs.," Dave Rylance sure blossoms aza one-juicee-meat-a-ball; but HOW does he hide that five o'clock shadow? (Probably, only Lamont Cranston knows.)

Somehow Jim Gilpatrick just has to EXIST and we think it's funny but when they add neat 'n orderly Bernie Redmond, it's another Odd Couple.

Missed Larry Quilty-Tony Bell routine, however. That always broke us up.

More politicians at-the-Temple (Emanuel) than at-the-polls last week. At Sisterhood's annual beef dinner, it's a tradition; if one's runnin' for office, he shows his face. You know the routine: "Vote early; vote often."

John Greaney even scattered family snapshots. It'd fracture his pocketbook to treat whole brood; there's 13 of them. Ham Fish Jr., sporting whale-of-a-Vote-Fish for Congressman pin, must've come through door sideways. There even were politicians who weren't in the race (this year anyhow) Ray Garraghan, John Machone, Don Quick . . . Everything was saccharine 'n spice!

Marianne Darrow played guide last week at The Freeman—her former bread 'n butter post—with Swiss newspaper publisher, Mrs. Margaret Hummel, whose great, great aunt that was Gloria's hair piece he was originator of Hummel figurines. While touring plant, through with him, two-to-one Marianne bumped into Freeman stereotyper Bill Pagan . . . proof that it's a small world! The last time Bill and Marianne met was 1948 in Berlin. Mrs. D. then with Special Services entertainin' G.I.s—produced 'Minstrel Daze' and Bill was her harmonica player.

Congratulations to John Warren! His CTA public relations business is now 10 years old. Johnny and Audria celebrated same with cocktails and conversation recently at their Hurley home. Mr. and Mrs. Dewese DeWitt were there, along with Irwin and Norma Thomas, Bud Springers, Amos Newcombe, Shane and Peggy Crosby . . . Well, John, hope next decade's more CTA—Continual Thriving Accounts, that is.

If Sidney Musiker's brand new Toyota sales continue to surge, Sid'll be forced to expand already. At grand opening cocktail party last Friday, well-nigh every car in showroom was marked "SOLD" . . . Three cheers for hard-helmet American-luv'n construction workers; every day they take time out to hoist Old Glory at Kingston Uptown Parking Garage site . . . By the way, have you seen Bill Skilling drivin' about in auto bearing red, white, blue emblem: Official U.S. Taxpayer? It makes one feel so-o-race (this year anyhow) Ray important!

A Winning Combination For 'The Sound of Music'

When "The Sound of Music" opened on Broadway in November of 1959, critic Brooks Atkinson, writing for The New York Times, had this to say: "From 'The Trapp Family Singers,' the makers of 'The Sound of Music' have acquired two valuable assets—legendary personal courage and a love of singing. These are the most winning characteristics of the new bountiful musical drama. 'The Sound of Music' is always moving. Occasionally it is also glorious."

Coach House Players feel strongly that two good reasons their production will live up to the past accolades heaped on this Rodgers and Hammerstein classic are June Scherer, who plays Elsa Schraeder, beautiful, rich widow rivalling for Captain Von Trapp's affections, and Bill LaVoie who plays Max Detweiler, courageous concert manager and friend of Captain Von Trapp.

Bill LaVoie, of course, is no stranger to Coach House audiences since he has starred in "Don't Drink the Water", "Finian's Rainbow", and "Pajama Game" among other Coach House productions. LaVoie also appeared in "Harvey" for the Spotlighters of Tillson, has been heard on The Parthenon Playhouse weekly radio show over WOKO Albany, and was featured in "Three Men On a Horse" while with the LaSalle Players of Troy, N.Y. Employed by IBM, he lives with his family in High Falls.

Talented Newcomer

June Scherer is a newcomer to Coach House audiences. Born in Canada, she has appeared in several operettas and plays at Brescia College, London, Canada and The Ontario College of Education in Toronto. Since coming to Kingston, she has become a member of the Lyric Chorus and Kingston Maennerchor. She also teaches vocal music and chorus at the St. Peter's-St. Mary's consolidated middle school. June resides in Port Ewen with her husband and two children.

The Coach House production of "The Sound of Music" will be presented at the J. Watson Bailey School on Nov. 19, 20 and 21 at 8:30 p.m., with a special matinee on Nov. 21 for grade and high school students. Tickets may be obtained at the Bailey School Nov. 9 through 13 from 7 to 9 p.m. or at the YWCA Nov. 11 through 13 from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

The entire production will be under the direction of Bill Skilling, Program Director for WGHQ radio station.

Copland Celebration

Composer Aaron Copland's 70th birthday, Nov. 14, will be saluted with a Dec. 27 CBS telecast, season's first of the 14-year-old New York Philharmonic Young People's Concerts. Leonard Bernstein will narrate and conduct "A Copland Celebration."

ERNESTLY SPEAKING

"OOPS!" DEPARTMENT

A couple of weeks before I started this "colyum" I ran an ad in which I referred to Mark Twain's observation about the weather: "Everybody talks about it, but nobody does anything about it." At least, I thought it was Mark Twain's creation, but seems I was wrong . . . as I'm sure a few million other Americans might be.

From my good friend Leo Schwarzsstein, there's a note: "I'm rooting for your column, but don't repeat the error in your Anniversary ad, attributing that 'weather' saying to Mark Twain. Actually, it was Charles Dudley Warner who coined that remark; I don't know how it got attached to Twain, but I present this correction in the interests of accuracy . . . something for which even a columnist should strive."

I'm glad I didn't know this before I ran the ad, because I sure wouldn't have started off any ad with "As Charles Dudley Warner said . . ." You've got to admit, Mr. S., that Mark Twain's name in an ad figures to get a lot more attention than Charles Dudley Warner. I won't do it again, but in the meantime: Who was Charles Dudley Warner?

19 MORE DAYS

That's 19 more days until THANKSGIVING, and all the goodies that ROBERTO is planning for your THANKSGIVING DAY DINNER. Just to set the record straight . . . there will be NO CHANGE from our regular Dinner Presentation, for the TURKEY DINNER at $5.95 (only $3.95 for the children under 10.) And there will be NO INCREASE in prices of the regular gourmet Dinners. Your Holiday Dinner still will include the COCKTAIL ON THE HOUSE (with soft drinks for the Children), the Shrimp Cocktail or Clams Roberto, the blue chip Desserts . . . all the regular trimmings that continue to make Dinner At ROBERTO'S the biggest deal of a meal in the Hudson Valley. On Thursday, November 26th, Reservations will be taken from Noon until eight for your festive feasting.

THE PARTY LINE

There's no use trying to be modest; if you're good, you're bound to be found out . . . as party planning folks hereabouts are finding out in the case of Luncheon or Dinner Parties at ROBERTO'S. People who merely call up various restaurants and "shop for prices" maybe never catch on, but those who take the trouble to come in, compare menus, delve into quality and presentation, so often choose ROBERTO'S. As I've said before: Apple Cider costs less than Champagne; unless you come in and compare, you really won't know how much you're getting for your money.

That's why ROBERTO'S gets such compliments for the kind of parties we cater . . . and we've had the pleasure and privilege of catering some nice parties for some nice people. Take this past week, for instance:

AMONG THOSE PLEASANT:

While I'm speaking so much about Parties (because this happens to be the big Party Season), I wouldn't want you to get the impression that we have ONLY parties. Perish the thought. Ninety per cent of our business comes from regular Luncheon and Dinner patrons, who know their way around our menu (and around the county!) I can't always get around to greeting everybody who comes to ROBERTO'S (wish I could!), but here are a few of the folks I remember as being "among those pleasant" this past week:

George and Martha, of Kingston's famed Park Diner, celebrating Martha's birthday with the well-wishing attendance of

Mr. and Mrs. John Scully, and another couple whose names I wish I has been alert enough to get from George. (Gimme a few weeks at this sport . . . I'll learn!)

Legal Eagle Dick Griggs and the Missus, having a go at their favorite meal starter, the Caneloni which ROBERTO prepares for them, to go along with their accustomed Veal Scallopine. Gastronomically speaking, Mrs. Griggs digs the cucina Italiana.

Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Martin making a foursome at dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Roy (the Florist) Brown. Roy claims that both The Doctor and he are eye specialists . . . Doc operates on the peepers and Roy gladdens them with his floral arrangements. Just proves what I always claim: In any profession or vocation, a Pro is a Pro (like ROBERTO with the kitchen artistry!)

MISH MASH

In answer to several doubting Tillies, let me emphasize that when I say the Ladies get any and all Drinks at Half Price at our Cocktail Lounge, Monday through Friday . . . I mean ANY and ALL . . . no matter what the choice, and not merely for "the first drink."

And speaking of the Lounge, I'm getting happier and happier about the way you folks are taking to Mark Garrison and his Hammond, on Friday and Saturday nights . . . especially the would-be tonsorializers who like to sing along, and hold that last note! It's a lot of fun.

Last week the Saturday Night Scene was almost an off-the-cuff Night Club Show . . . except that the only performer who got any moola was Mark. Tony "Red" Amato started the sing along shenanigans (he's terrific with a Lounge full of folks!) Then Jack Turck joined in the singing act and added some comedy. Augie also filled in again . . . he's becoming a "regular" at the mike, with Mark at the organ. Add Fran and Vic with the Old Time Tunes . . . and everybody had a real ball until the wee small hours. Looks like these Friday and Saturday Nights there will be a lot of local talent getting on the "Cocktail Lounge" Pandwagon; which is all right with me as long as they don't give ME a bill!

A diner Luncheon visitor was being shown our Kitchen last week, watched ROBERTO himself pouring the rum for a new baking of his famous Rum Cake. Noting the Chef's lavishness with the Rum, he found opportunity to work in one of Phil Harris' famous lines: "Roberto, don't waste time baking that cake; just throw away the dough and serve me the sauce." Actually, our Rum Cake is so popular just because it IS baked freshly and by Roberto himself.

It's not too much too soon to be talking about New Year's Eve at ROBERTO'S; I'll enlarge upon that theme as soon as I have news about what's going to be . . . maybe next week or so. Meanwhile, you can celebrate New Year's Eve every night at ROBERTO'S.

Santa Claus

Kingston's Mayfair Theatre has a treat for the kids. To herald the arrival of the Christmas season, the all time great

Yule classic, "Santa Claus" is being rerun this weekend. "Santa Claus," in brilliant color and newly revamped since winning the Best Family Film Award at the San Francisco Film Festival, will get two complete showings today and tomorrow at the Mayfair. Saturday and Sunday double matinees are scheduled for 1:30 and 3:30 p.m. both days. People of all ages will enjoy Joseph Elias Moreno as "Santa Claus," in this film that recaptures the wonders, splendor, and beauty of Christmas—just the sort of fare that appeals at this time of the year.

There's a twist in that Santa lives in a castle far out in space where, with all the modern conveniences of science fiction, he sees and hears children all over the world; can tune in on their dreams and wants. But the picture also has a message of goodwill and faith, heightened by wondrous scenes of the fantastic workroom of the happy elves, the fabulous realm of the candy-stick palaces, and all the wonderful characters of make-believe.

Take the whole family to this Christmas classic.

Darling Lili

A lot of effort has gone into this Blake Edwards film in an attempt to spoof World War I spying. Edwards has cast his wife, Julie Andrews, as an English music hall singing star who is using her fame to cover her spying activities for the Germans. And he has given her Rock Hudson as the handsome flyer she must draw secrets from.

The spoof doesn't quite come off. Miss Andrews is worth seeing and hearing as always, but there are boring moments and childish dialogue in scene after scene. The best "Darling Lili" has to offer is a fair number of nostalgic old songs by the talented Miss Andrews, and some really wham-bang dog-fights between Rock and the Red Baron. The aerial battles are the real scene stealers in this film.

BRUCE DAVISON and KIM DARBY in a quiet moment removed from the rioting and campus disorders that are central to the plot of "The Strawberry Statement," the film that makes a cogent comment on youth. "Strawberry" is now showing at Woodstock's Tinker Street Cinema.
